the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million (1990–1999) and is projected to increase by a further 1.5 million by 2010 (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to develop strategies to meet the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has identified the need to develop a new paradigm of care for the ageing population, one that is based on the concept of 'active ageing'. This paradigm is based on the idea that ageing is a process, not a state, and that the goal of care should be to promote the health and well-being of older people, rather than to simply manage their decline.

The Department of Health (1999) has identified a number of key areas for action in order to achieve this paradigm. These include: (1) promoting the health and well-being of older people; (2) ensuring that older people have access to the services and resources they need; (3) ensuring that older people are able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives; and (4) ensuring that older people are able to live in their own homes and communities.

The Department of Health (1999) has also identified a number of key areas for research in order to achieve this paradigm. These include: (1) understanding the needs of older people; (2) understanding the barriers to older people's participation in decisions that affect their lives; (3) understanding the impact of ageing on health and well-being; and (4) understanding the impact of ageing on the economy.

Granite City South
 Granite City, Illinois

Vol. No. 28

In 1898, the first high school was established in Granite City in a small frame church, the Kinderhook Church, located on what is now the Emerson School grounds. As the population grew, the high school was moved to the second floor of the McKinley School building and later to the Central Junior High School. By 1919 this building became so crowded that the school was run in two shifts. One year after Granite City South's construction, in 1921, students moved into the new building. The auditorium was added in 1924, the rear central wing in 1927 and the vocational wing in 1928. During 1940-41, a wing connecting the vocational and academic area was built. The Memorial gymnasium was constructed in 1956, followed by two new classroom wings in 1960. Finally, the cafeteria building was added in 1966.

Disaster struck in 1970 as the auditorium was set on fire and totally destroyed. The auditorium was rebuilt and with the ever-increasing population, a new high school was erected. Completed in 1974, this new sister school, Granite City North, opened.

The teams' name, Warriors, was selected in 1921 by the student body. In 1958, Roy Chapman painted a Warrior mural on the wall of the Memorial gymnasium to signify our school mascot. Mrs. Byron Bozarth, wife of a P.E. instructor, composed the school's song in 1921. Also during this year the first WARRIOR Yearbook was published. Production was discontinued during World War II but resumed in 1956 and has continued since.

Attending Granite City High School South are 530 seniors and 2050 underclassmen. Students may select from 360 different classes. There are 137 teachers, 4 full-time administrators, 7 counselors, 2 librarians, 2 part-time teachers, 11 secretaries and 35 other staff members.

South Improved By NCA Evaluation

To determine and maintain the highest qualities of schools throughout the United States, a national evaluation system was organized. South is evaluated every seven years by the North Central Association and has always earned a high rating of AAA. However, this year the Home Economics, Business and Vocational Education departments were evaluated separately by the State Vocational office. Mr. Blaine Bonyng, principal of Alton High School, was chairman of the visitation committee. Under his supervision, a team of evaluators, selected by each department from nearby schools and colleges, visited South April 3, 4, and 5. In particular, they were examining how South met the objectives of the school district and the community and ways in which the school facilities and curriculum may be improved.

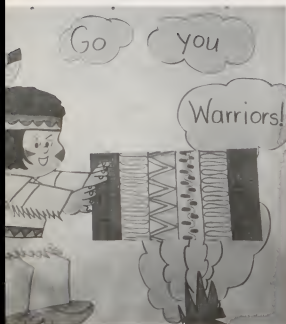

Preparing for the evaluation, every teacher must fill out a data sheet evaluating his department and listing his teaching background and degrees. Students also participated by filling out an information sheet expressing their opinion on various courses, extra-curricular activities and teaching techniques. Before concluding the evaluation, the committee reviewed this information, visited classes, talked to teachers and students, and eventually wrote a report suggesting possible improvements. After the last evaluation, South completed 80-85% of all suggestions on the list. Although South's quality of education is highly rated according to Mr. Catanzaro, who heads the evaluation, improvement suggestions are welcome.

Warrior Spirit Changes with The Times

Statements have recently been made concerning the Granite City South student body lacking "the Warrior spirit." Although viewpoints may greatly vary, some aspects of these statements prove to be somewhat correct. While fairly large crowds accumulate at football and soccer games, three fourths of the student body doesn't even realize the golf and cross country teams exist. Vocal cords may not be given the exercise at football games that they were in years past, but spirit does survive. What if there were no cheers or support from the reliable Red Pepper Club? Soccer spirit is forever on the uprise and this support is recognized and greatly appreciated. Generally, there are large turnouts for the basketball, wrestling and baseball teams; but once again, where are these crowds at tennis and track meets? Certain sports may seem trivial to many people, but to insure true "Warrior spirit" every sport should be supported in some manner.

In this age of "doing your own thing," students keep the "Warrior spirit" alive in many different ways. Only some of this spirit is visible at boys' athletic events. Approximately 200 girls are participating in sports of their own throughout the school year. Changing times reveal that many females no longer wish to cheer their male companions on to victory, but prefer spending this time involved in sports of their own.

Although some students prefer studying over the Friday night cheering section; these students do improve South's reputation as a top-notch school. Others spend hours working on school plays, the newspaper, or the yearbook. Are these people not showing school spirit? Contrary to popular belief, means of expressing school spirit have expanded, but traditional means are not yet dead at Granite City South.

Heavy Rain Spoils Parade; Floats Fade Out

Although the Homecoming theme was "Tame The Tigers," it should have been "Stop The Rain." Never before has the weatherman been so accurate, when he predicted 100% chance of rain on October 7. Thirteen floats were scheduled to participate, but due to the rain several dropped out.

Art Club won first prize of fifty dollars, Science Club won second place of thirty dollars, and Lettermen's Club won third prize of twenty dollars.

The rain did not spoil Homecoming week completely. On Tuesday at seven o'clock a bonfire was held at Wilson Park honoring the football players accompanied by Red Pepper members. After the bonfire, the football players, Red Peppers, and band members enjoyed hot chocolate and cookies.

Other events to celebrate Homecoming week included the presentation of the court and the play GODSPELL, a color day, a pep rally Friday morning and a dance after the football game. Even though only twenty-two fans endured the rain during the game, the cafeteria was packed with students anxious to release their frustration. The band Allspice performed quite well.

Several clubs sold buttons, gimmicks, and shakers to accent the week. Red Peppers sold a pin designed as a charging Warrior.

Court Adds Another Couple

Tradition was broken this year when an additional couple was added to the Homecoming Court, due to a tie, making eleven couples altogether.

Remembering that night, Terri Deterding recalled, "It was one of those too-good-to-be-true moments. In fact, it still seems like it was only a dream." Mark Goldschmidt added, "Being chosen Homecoming King surprised me and it was a lot of fun."

Fall colors dominated the court. Mike Vesci, wearing tails, had the trim on the ruffles match Cheska Anselmo's dress. The girls wore a wide variety of dress styles ranging from the hoop to slinky.

GODSPELL attracted sell-out audiences when the Speech Department presented the Homecoming play October 5, 6, and 8. Dan Hunnicutt's performance as Jesus dominated the play.

A modern version of the gospel of Matthew, GODSPELL included updated forms of the parables "The Prodigal Son," "The Good Samaritan," and "The Sower and the Seed."

Thirteen principal characters and a large chorus spent many hours of hard work learning lines, music, and choreography.

One could never forget the boom-chicks, mm-zips, raspberries, and kazoo sounds that made up the strange sounds that were part of the song "We Beseech Thee," one of the many songs that made this production a success. Other songs included "Day by Day," "Save the People," and "All for the Best."

Dan Hunnicutt portraying Christ said, "My most emotional scene was saying good-bye to my followers." Ron Pennell, director, commented, "The audience certainly responded well."

Having early auditions in the school year allowed the cast to practice for five weeks, assuring a fine performance.

in his words

Mr. Dumont Expresses His Educational Philosophy

One of the most important duties of a principal is to help formulate an educational policy or guideline. In the past six years as principal, Mr. Dumont has developed his own educational philosophy. Mr. Dumont's primary objective is "that each student be treated as an individual in each class. Teachers should consider the varying degrees of progress and the problems each student has. Before failing a student, teachers should have a feeling that they have done everything possible for that student. Teaching is a tough job, but when teachers sign a contract, they realize that."

In addition to an educational policy, principals have to cope with other problems. The state and federal governments frequently require courses. Mr. Dumont added, "Money for a required course such as Consumer Management was available for a few years, but has now stopped; however, the course is still required by the state. Therefore, the school district must assume the financial burden. As you know, inflation is hurting every school district."

Many editorials have been written criticizing high school students citing poor grades and bad attitudes. Mr. Dumont's comments, however, differ from these critical reports. "The attitude of the majority of students has never been better. Critics don't consider that respect should be deserved. People wanting respect aren't always deserving of it; most students do show respect whenever it is deserved."

All of Mr. Dumont's problems are forgotten when he recalls graduation night. "On graduation night all the frustrations are forgotten as students show their appreciation in their eyes and voice."

Exposure As Parents

Many students plan to have a family, but do they really know what they are planning for? Parenting, taught by Miss Gertsch and Mrs. Nelson, informs students about the various responsibilities of parenting.

In class the students learn about prenatal care, the development of the fetus, and delivery procedures. The classes also discuss the development of the child from one to five years and experience the different age groups through day care centers.

Day care centers are held during class periods; students babysit youngsters of various ages to learn why children act as they do. The students also discover if they enjoy being around children.

Egg-caring teaches the class in the first lessons of raising a child. The students are given one hard-boiled egg which they had to care for just like a baby, keeping it in continual sight. During such periods as P.E. or marching band practice, students must get a reliable "egg sitter." The classes even had major and minor cases of "egg neglect," "egg abuse," and "egg knapping." Terry Donaldson and Miss Gertsch were found guilty of "egg abuse" and "egg neglect." Egg-caring was to show the class the responsibilities of caring for a baby.

Both teachers hope to have a permanent day care center at South and to enroll boys in the class since they will be parents too.

Budget Experience

Learning how to become a better consumer is a major concern of Consumer Home Management. The class, consisting mainly of sophomores, learns about the home management in everyday living.

First, the course explains what a consumer is and the rights and privileges each consumer has. Venturing into the decision-making process, the class learns the "how's" and "why's" of setting up a budget.

Eating also becomes a part of learning as students test new products of various manufacturers for quality. The classes also bake and then compare their homemade products to store-bought products, solving the problem of which is cheaper and better tasting.

Students Encounter World of Machines

The world of machines has its part in high school, and those who have either a skill or an interest in machines develop their knowledge in machine shop.

"It is a challenging, but an interesting class," said Dan Taff. Robbie Theis added, "It's one of the few classes that you can learn enough to get a job from."

The course consists of four parts ranging over a two year period for three hours a day, five days a week. After passing the prerequisites of Orientation to Industrial Occupations, Industrial Arts and Vocational Measurements, Drafting, and Machine Metals, students are qualified to enter the course with a permit.

During the first year, the students learn the basics of machine shop, covering the importance of knowing the proper use and maintenance of various machines. In class, students learn to operate machines such as the lathe, venter gages, standard machines and tools, milling machines (vertical and horizontal), drill press, and grinders (cylindrical and surface). The following year the students further their knowledge through instruction in tool layout, dies and drills as well as a continuation of basic skills.

Mr. Kutosky hopes that the course not only furthers the student's knowledge in machines but also his abilities to work and communicate with others.

Machine shop has its own history with past students winning awards and trophies of achievement and certificates of merit for outstanding work in the making of a drill press and jig saw. After completing two years, students are often able to find jobs in major companies and small businesses, using the skills gained in machine shop.

South Madrigals Believe In Music

Singing is a great pastime, but with many people it is a profession; and at South our professionals are the Madrigals. The art and talent of singing join as students tried out for positions in the group in the spring. Then the students practice, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Ann Bright.

Requirements for Madrigals are few, only to make the tryouts, join advanced mixed chorus and participate in extra curricular activities. Every year Madrigals purchase a new set of matching outfits with the money earned from fund-raising projects such as a rummage sale and selling Christmas and all-occasion cards.

In addition to their regular singing schedule of Christmas and Spring concerts, the students participate in musicals such as GODSPELL and MAME. Private concerts are given before such organizations as the Rotary Club and the First Methodist Church as an extra activity.

Being able to play the piano or the guitar is useful.

Data Processing Becomes Stepping Stone

As an introduction to the space age computers, students take data processing as a stepping stone in a career. Students determine if they have an interest or ability in data processing.

Although the course covers only the fundamentals in data processing, students learn through a ninety percent hands-on class how to use various machines. The actual experience in key punch gives the students enough knowledge to work as a key punch operator.

Using unit rule equipment, the class works on other machines such as the tabulator, the reproducer, the sorter, and the interpreter. These machines read, print, and report various data from a person's name and telephone number to the entire school's records. In addition, class votes are tabulated by these machines.

The remaining ten percent of the class is lecture and instruction where the teacher discusses with the students the importance and maintenance of the machines in data processing.

Health Of Students Depends On Health

The head bone is connected to the neck bone, the neck bone is connected to the shoulder bone, or is it the other way around? This question and others on how to take care of the human body are answered in health.

Students during their junior year increase their knowledge about such subjects as air pollution, medicines, diseases, broken bones, cuts, and cardiac arrest.

Completing reports, drawing posters, and practicing CPR are just a few of the projects students complete.

Many subjects during the course are interesting, but a majority of the students enjoy emergency action. Sitting on the floor, the class at first watches how bandages or splints are applied. Then in the buddy system, they practice the different techniques of treating wounds.

Students did not believe they would get actual CPR training, but with a mechanical doll named Anatomical Annie, the class works diligently to perfect the procedure.

About the value of taking health, Bridget Swinger commented, "First aid was my most enjoyable and practical subject. We bandaged each other and had a good time. I think what I have learned in this course will help me cope with problems of my own and others."

Gourmets Dine

Song, food, fun, and laughter were all part of the annual ethnic potluck dinner that students enrolled in ethnic literature enjoyed. Students from seven classes combined their efforts to prepare over fifty ethnic dishes for the dinner.

During the meal, members of the band played polkas. Afterwards, Larry Heagy, Dan Hunnicutt and Stacey Pyles sang.

In the classroom, students probe modern literature representing a wide range of nationalities for common themes such as love, brotherhood, prejudice, and alienation. Some of the classes attended area ethnic events.

Leisure

Students Love Good Old Summertime

Counting the days until summer vacation begins, students often combine work and pleasure. Many spend their summer days working for the park leaving their evenings open for leisurely pleasure. Softball, swimming, or just climbing on a bike and heading off can always be enjoyed even in the summer heat.

Softball, one of the most popular sports, always attracted big crowds, especially when the Crickets battled Apple Valley for the first place spot. In the boys' competition the Warriors, a team from North, and the Donks made it seem like the old school days with North vs. South.

Swimming was always enjoyable either day or night. At Paddlers, Wilson, or even in the back yard, sounds of splashing, plunging, and diving were heard.

From ten-speeds down to tricycles, people of all ages found bicycling a favorite past time as well as good exercise. Long bike hikes to Pere Marquette or just a short spin around the block often were refreshing. This summer a few new fads appeared; skateboards and frisbee sales boomed. Dates often played miniature golf because the girls and boys were evenly skilled. After vacation days were over and school resumed, students began counting the Mondays until summertime.

Dance To The Beat

Dances still seem to maintain the popularity as they have in the past years. The type of music and the style of dancing have changed somewhat though. The twist and the jitterbug have been tossed aside for the popular King Tut, Roller Coaster, or the Slide. The bands no longer play the rock and roll sounds of Chuck Berry.

Organizing dances is a time-consuming project; choosing a date and checking it with Mr. Dumont is only the first step. Then, after a group writes to a booking agent to find out about certain bands, their songs and prices, a band is selected and notified to see if it is available.

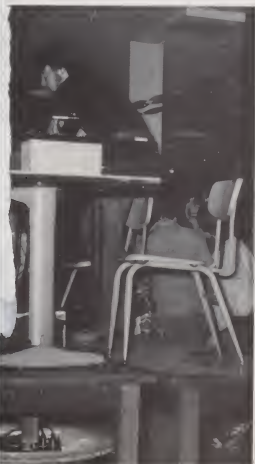

Opinions of dances often vary. Cindy Parente said, "It's a good time to have a fun get-together with all your friends." Christy Feigl enjoyed them for another reason, "Who likes to dance, I go to watch all the good-looking guys." Becky Sage has a popular opinion, "I just enjoy watching the people and the band." But Becky Foote summed it up with the most logical reason of all, "I simply like to dance."

Winter Hibernation

Winter activities do not necessarily have to pertain to the outdoors. Many cold and snowy winter days and nights are spent behind the doors of various shopping centers. Warm, wooly sweaters, hats, gloves and long underwear were items that were bought quickly.

Television-watching time increases and many arguments are started by deciding who determines the choice of programs.

Listening to the stereo and family card games are also some favorite pastimes.

Forty-winks begins to turn into hours of sleeping time, and students enjoy the pleasures of laziness.

Seniors At Last!

It hardly seems possible that four years have passed since we entered high school for the first time.

As we watch the antics of the freshmen, we cannot believe that we were once in their place.

As our high school years end, we wonder what the world has in store for us now, as we leave Granite South.

Close Encounter Of The Fourth Kind—Daydreaming In Class

Here I sit trying to stay awake through another lecture. Gosh, today is only Tuesday. Three more days until the weekend.

Friday I'll go to the football game, and Saturday night there's going to be a party. I can't wait! I can see it now . . .

Suddenly I see the cutest hunk in the school. He smiles at me, and those sparkling white teeth seem to light up the whole room. I smile back and he winks one of those big blue eyes. I begin to melt as he starts walking toward me. Have you ever seen such muscles! As we begin to talk, I pray that he won't hear my heart pounding.

I can't believe it's already time to leave. When he offers to take me home, I hop right in his car.

All too soon we are in my driveway, and he is walking me to the door. I don't want this night to end.

Then comes what I have been waiting for; he takes me in his arms and softly kisses me good-night. How I wish that moment could last forever . . .

Senioritis Strikes

With football and soccer season, homecoming, and the beginning of a new semester, seniors begin their final year with pep and enthusiasm. Weeks later these same students appear in classes with lackluster eyes as they prop up their heads for another long lecture.

Such symptoms as procrastination, poor test results, and weak senior comp themes prevail as the common disease known as senioritis strikes its victims. Few escape the dastardly plague as it sows its fatal seeds.

The A's and B's which seniors once proudly carried home on their report cards now appear as C's and D's as students shove them out of sight and wonder what to tell their parents. Grade point averages begin to slip, and the class rank, which was once so definite, becomes jumbled.

Although senior slump is inevitable, it rarely leaves serious scars. Enthusiasm abounds once again as the prom, May Day, and graduation roll around.

Traits Of Teachers

Seniors have experienced all sorts of teachers, some good, others not so good.

Most students don't like teachers who give hard tests or too much homework, but most seniors realize that they are unavoidable.

Teachers who don't explain homework well enough bother Mike Bogovich, and Susan Hinson becomes concerned over teachers who are apathetic when their students fail.

Melody Bauer feels that teachers should try to understand their students. Scott Horton believes teachers should try to set a pace with the students and explain the assignments on their level.

Lisa Crippen states, "I think a good teacher is one who cares about his students and himself." Tom LeMaster admires a teacher who "doesn't hold the things you do on your own time against you."

By heeding some of these suggestions, maybe teachers can learn from the students.

Does Superstition Rule Your Life?

Hocus, pocus. . . superstitions often play a large role in the lives of many students.

Many athletes, particularly, have numerous unusual mannerisms.

Wrestler Wally DeShon goes through a planned routine in assembling his uniform for a meet. Everything must be put on in a certain order, at a certain time, in a certain way, etc. For instance, the hole in his sock must be over the little toe on his left foot. He must also have his Snoopy pin attached to his warm-up jacket.

When playing tennis, Linda Vaught insists upon #2 Wilson tennis balls. "I must at least have even numbered balls," she stated. "I can't win with odd numbers."

David Goldschmidt shared an interesting experience from the state soccer tournament. "At state a girl gave me a cross and told me to wear it through the three games, and we would win. I wore it the whole time, and we won!" he exclaimed.

The number of people who won't start their day without reading their horoscopes is immense. "I read my horoscope every day," confesses Cheska Anselmo.

Whether or not any of these practices actually has anything to do with the outcome of sporting events or the events of a certain day is debatable. But if people are convinced that they do, well then, who knows?

The Snow Days Went Slip-Sliding Away

Heavy snow, slippery ice, and gusting winds causing negative 40 degree temperatures, concepts usually more meaningful to Eskimos than Granite Cityans, became popular here also as the Metro-East was tortured with blizzard-like conditions.

Ice-packed and snow-covered roads created hazardous driving situations and blinding snow blowing across the streets often caused problems. Many cars became trapped in the deep snowdrifts formed by huge gusts of the howling wind.

Bringing joy to the students and disaster to the parents, radio announcers ran out of breath on the tiring lists of school closings. Granite City utilized all five allotted snow days, but many St. Louis schools used more.

Even when the roads were cleared, the snow still remained in yards, fields, and on the sides of the roads, creating a general feeling of disgust for its white treacherousness.

Rick Willmore was so bored that he baked a cake. Ken Meagher said that he would rather come to school any day than stay home and be bored. Beth Eck said, "I slept and had a snowball fight." Snow became a way of life this winter.

Seniors Concoct Creative Excuses

Excuses, excuses, excuses!

After four years of practice, seniors often come up with the best.

Students wander in without their assignments, desperately groping for anything to tell the teacher, whether it is believable or not.

Along with the usual "I had to work late," "I forgot it," and "I had too much other homework," some very unusual reasons are given.

Dan Schaus' time was taken doing "an important errand for Mr. Carter." He didn't say if it were Jimmy or Billy. What a surprise Mary Yarbrough's family had when her homework "accidentally fell on the stove and was cooked" for supper.

Then the really unprepared students slid in without their book. They either "forgot it," "left it in a friend's car," "it was stolen," or "left it in my locker."

Casually strolling in after the first five minutes of class are the really good excuse makers. Many have been in the bathroom, getting a drink, pushing through crowded halls, going to the wrong class.

But according to some students, strange events take place in the course of the day. Stacey Pyles managed to get locked in the restroom by a custodian. The mafia kidnapped Brian Meehan and took him to Chicago. Gary Phelps was caught in a blizzard on the way from Coolidge.

All in all, these excuses prove one thing about the Class of '78. They have wild imaginations.

Tomorrow A Pushbutton Society - Let Your Fingers Work.

Today many kinds of computers play important roles in students' lives.

Take away a math students' pocket calculator, and you might as well take away his right arm. Chemistry and physics students also find the calculators useful.

Since many of the new programmable pocket calculators are not too easy to operate, the Math Department offers a calculator class.

Duplicators and microfilm readers too save students literally hours of time formerly spent writing material for reports.

Computers often make life harder for students instead of easier.

Scheduling is now done by computer, but not always flawlessly. The mistakes cause many problems for students and counselors. It is very embarrassing for a Spanish major to see Advanced German 4 appear on his schedule card.

Computers also make numerous mistakes on report cards, and if that D is really supposed to be a C, the results could be rather drastic for the students.

Computers, like humans, cannot be perfect, so we overlook their mistakes.

Seniors Sparkle In The Christmas Assembly By Taking First

Despite a broken tricycle, a slow start in the shoe hunt, and an energetic sophomore team, the senior class representatives came from behind to win the "Almost Anything Goes" Contest, earning an hour lunch for the seniors.

After getting kicked in the shoe race, the seniors scooted back to win the scooter race.

In the basketball shoot, the seniors dribbled down the court for an early lead, but height problems soon hindered their progress.

Hopping right back, the seniors came in second in the three-legged potato sack race.

Disaster overtook the seniors in the tricycle race. After quickly peddling into the lead, they slowed down when the handlebars came off in Dan Hunnicutt's hands. Dan angrily appealed to judge Laurie Jones and the tricycle was replaced—by one with a warped wheel.

Fate may not have been with the seniors in the tricycle race, but that didn't bother them as they galloped to first place in the horse race.

At this point, the seniors had to score in the last game to have a chance to win.

Then out came the rolls of paper and the pies, and the seniors began to munch. Coming in second place behind the first place freshmen and in front of the third place juniors, the seniors had eaten their way to an hour lunch, and the honor of "creaming" the losing freshmen. The faculty was exempt from the creaming, much to the dismay of the seniors.

Being in the contest gave many memories to the contestants. Michelle Margrabe said, "It was the most fun I've ever had. It was fun recalling many childhood memories."

The senior contestants were Rob Ronney, Laura Mendez, Lala Anselmo, Barry Briggs, Larry Martin, Marcie Little, Michelle Margrabe, and Dan Hunnicutt.

If ERA Passes, Look Out Sports World And Howard Cosell!

If the women's lib movement ever progresses to the stage where girls are playing football, the entire sports world will be shocked, especially if the girls play with the current knowledge of the game.

The number of players on the team would vary from nine, according to Sally Brown, all the way up to Carla Svoboda's twenty. Barb Schafer would use the pigskin as shoulder pads.

While almost all girls know that it takes ten yards to earn a first down, most do not know what a first down is. Many assume it is the first time a player is knocked down. To Bev Morgan, "a first down is the first time the team with the ball is stopped on their side of the fifty yard line trying to score."

Football fields of different lengths would be used by the girls. Can you imagine playing football on a thirty-six foot field? Terry Hediger can. To the other extreme, Joni Savala thinks the football field should be five hundred feet. At any rate, Carla Svoboda summed it up by saying the length of the football field is "from one goalpost to the other."

Denise Lipinski's clock would stop after three periods of fifteen minutes each, while Bev Morgan would let the game drag on through four sixty-minute quarters."

Instead of punting or kicking field goals, the specialty teams would "get special privileges" from Joni Savala. Sally Brown thinks a specialty team is "a team that is undefeated and plays other teams to give them practice." Barb Schafer says it would be a good idea to have specialty teams, "in case one of either team gets hurt or doesn't show up."

Males and females may deserve equal rights, but most girls have a long way to go before they have earned the right to play on the football field.

What's for lunch? Hamburger, cheeseburger, lettuce, and tomato, baked hambone and French-fried potato . . .

"And I'm on a diet! Oh well, I can start tomorrow."

Sound familiar? Dieting is forever popular, though probably more in thought than in actual success.

Diets come in various assortments such as protein, liquid, carbohydrate, high-fiber, bread and water, and grapefruit diets.

Many teenagers prefer the no-food diet, but their fasting usually doesn't last long.

Dieting takes will power and good-luck.

Several Reasons Are Given For Declining College Test Scores

A steady decline in college testing scores has been causing increasing concern. Many different reasons are believed to contribute to this decline.

Television is blamed for much of it. Students are supposedly spending time that could be used for studying in front of the tube. Sports events and many other social activities are also accused of taking up valuable study time.

Emotional upsets in students' lives such as broken homes or deaths are often pointed at as causes of poor student performance.

Several people feel that the educational levels of today's college-bound students has dropped due to laziness and apathy.

While it is true that numerous students headed for college are taking the easy way out by signing up for "Mickey Mouse" courses over the more solid college prep classes and will probably regret it, it is not necessarily true that laziness or apathy is causing poor test scores.

A more likely cause for an overall drop in test scores takes a more favorable attitude toward the students.

The fact is more students are now taking the tests. Some students, although on a somewhat lower level than is considered standard for the college-bound student, are at least making the effort to go to college. Students on the same level years ago probably would not have even considered college or college tests.

Although these poorer scores are lower than the national average, maybe they are actually a blessing in disguise. They are proving that today's young people are interested in continuing their educations and should be praised for their efforts instead of criticized for their performance.

Burn, Baby, Burn

Seniors have the unusual ability not only to concoct excuses for being late to class but also for not keeping a date. Each student perfects his own "burn" technique.

Larry Heagy suggested telling the girl "I'm sick" and adding in an undertone "of you." Colin Feeney appreciates the more subtle approach, "Just push the girl out of a window, and she'll get the hint."

One of Tammy Keeton's favorite standbys was, "I have to work on the yearbook." (Even though the deadlines were met.) Another popular and ever faithful excuse used by Pat Branch was, "I have to visit my sick grandmother."

In addition to breaking dates, these excuses also come in handy when one is dating two people at the same time. Instead of telling her "boyfriend" that she's going out with his best friend, it is always easier for a girl to create a babysitting job.

However, if ever caught in the act, she may succeed in alienating both guys, thus, "burning" herself.

Critical Game Goes Into Sudden Death

Upcoming was the biggest game of my senior year. I knew my opponent would be tough, so I began to psyche myself out early.

The coach went over the confusing rules numerous times, but I was still unsure of the game plan.

In the first period, I found myself in an interesting situation. Confronted with a bibliography, I was certain I was defeated before I had begun. Doing the best I could, I was surprised when, fouling once, I completed it as the period ended.

Pleased with my first period performance, I advanced into the second period with confidence. But then I discovered "note cards." More difficult than the bibliography, these note cards had me frightened, so I tackled them zealously. By half time I was exhausted. Adding two more fouls, I headed for the locker room.

After the halftime pep talk, I returned to the game with more assurance.

"Outline" was to be my goal for this quarter, although not a particularly promising one. Struggling along, I wanted to gain enough stamina to finish this game. Just when I thought I was doing great, I chalked up my fourth foul, and the buzzer sounded.

The roughest test was still waiting, and I was tense as that crucial last quarter began. With four fouls, I knew I would have to be sharp in order to win.

When time out was called with two minutes remaining, I was losing. Frustrated, I hurried back, and when the buzzer sounded, I tied the score. The game went into overtime.

Frantic, I played hard and managed to win. My term paper was finished!

Do South Students Believe "Honesty Is The Best Policy?"

When placed in hypothetical situations, seniors' imaginations work overtime. Asked to create impossible ways to cheat, they thought of some interesting, although not always practical, ideas.

What teacher would not notice answers taped to a person's head, which Dawn Lamb suggested.

Writing the answers under a watch band, Kevin Narup's idea, might work until time to take them out. The teacher might become suspicious.

Answers written on the inside of the fingers was Kerry Brawley's hint for cheating success, and if lead poisoning does not develop, could be applied.

Lisa Landys thought of putting the answers in the hood of your coat, with your coat in your lap. But, how many students sit with their coat in their lap?

Dave Schulte suggested placing the answers in your sock and pretending to scratch your leg during the test. By the time you finished rolling your pant legs back up, the teacher will be standing over you, patiently waiting for an explanation.

An idea received from Dave Dortch, writing crib notes in a foreign language, would be fine, but, if caught, you'd better pray that the teacher does not know the language.

Beth Eck claims she has seen a microscopic cheat sheet and wrap it around their pens. That idea sounds fine, but the teacher might think something's a bit odd when the student had to pull out his magnifying glass.

The most practical way, according to Cheska Anselmo, starts at the beginning of the semester. "Pick a smart neighbor to sit by," she hinted.

Since everyone knows that honesty is the best policy, these proposals are good only for a laugh. However, should we have any die-hard cheaters among us, we guarantee these cheating guidelines will get you one thing for certain—caught.

Dreams Of Seniors

The dream of every senior girl is to attend the prom. The goal of many senior boys, however, is to avoid taking a girl to the prom, for a variety of reasons.

Many are financially unable to afford the tickets along with the flowers and tuxedo rental.

Some girls investigated the cost of an escort service, only to find it prohibitive. Some turned to relatives, distant cousins twice-removed, to see if there were any date possibilities.

Other girls resorted to more drastic measures such as paying their own way in installments.

Unescorted girls sit at home, trying to find a way to cure the prom night blues, while many guys sigh with relief that it's too late to take a girl to the prom.

A few girls, however, don't face this problem since they have steady boyfriends, and often boys are as eager to attend their senior prom as the girls are. For everyone who goes, it is an experience he will never forget.

Hello World! Goodbye Teachers, Friends, And Granite South

Here I am, wandering down the halls of GCHS/South for the last time.

My freshman biology lab, where more than once lemon perfume tried unsuccessfully to drown the strong formaldehyde odor, looks the same as it did four years ago.

The auditorium reminds me of the sophomore follies, when I didn't overcome my stage fright until after our skit was over.

Over there is the history room where I struggled for 18 weeks. Now my high school years are nothing more than history.

Of course, my senior year was the best. Senior meetings, winning state in soccer again, the prom and May festival all helped to make it great.

Civics tried to prepare me for the world outside after a four year sheltered existence.

Now it's goodbye South, hello world.

Blue Jeans Forever

Jeans, overalls for two dollars a pair? Before you jump in the car and head for Jamestown or St. Clair Square, relax.

"I left over-alls when I left the farm," says one fifty-year-old former farm boy. It's no wonder if he's disconcerted by the ever-growing practice among teenagers of wearing them. "When I was a kid, blue jeans and overalls meant you were poor. I would have been ashamed to wear them. And they were always accompanied by those awful clodhopper shoes."

Obviously, the times have changed. Jeans and overalls are expensive items these days. At one time jeans were made only from the coarsest, dark blue denim and had no ornamentation. Now one needs only to glance down the hall at school to see the many directions jean styles have gone. Yet, jeans and overalls can't be termed a fad; they've been around for years now, and probably will always be because of their practicality.

A Challenging Sport

Foosball and pinball are excellent sources of entertainment. Each of these games demands a certain amount of skill to keep the ball alive and to rack up points. These two games differ enough that when one is tired of playing one game, another awaits for just a quarter of a dollar.

Foosball consists of a total of twenty-two men on a regulation table. A team consists of one or two players.

David King feels that these games are so popular because they present a challenge, one that has expanded to colleges.

When students leave home to go play these games, they can offer the excuse that they are preparing for college.

Fat City Applauded

Last fall, Student Council presented an assembly entitled "Fat City" for the juniors and seniors. This multimedia presentation consisted of nine computerized projectors and three 43' X 13' screens. Marty Portell feels "The song excerpts were the best part of the productions."

Produced by Camfel Productions of California, "Fat City" was sponsored by the First Assembly of God Church of Granite City.

The main thrust of the presentation was to clarify values. Students were asked what their priorities were in life; such as family, friends, and alcohol. This slide show tried to persuade the audience that giving can be most satisfying; the students gave their approval by tremendous applause.

Another assembly was also held in December. Merely by accident, our school had the pleasure of being entertained by a Navy Band. Originally the band was supposed to play in Cahokia, but due to a severe snowstorm, the Cahokia school closed which enabled us to hear them.

Juniors Sharpen Senses With #2 Pencil

It's a warm spring morning—a Saturday—and just perfect for riding a ten-speed bike or playing tennis at the park. But in cafeterias and classrooms all over America, students gather. They file in, carefully guarding the points of their #2 pencils with terror in their hearts and on their faces. Several hours later they emerge. Some have tousled hair, rolled-up sleeves, and looks of great anxiety; some look sheepish. Where have these students been? They've just taken the A.C.T. test, a phenomenon increasingly as American as apple pie.

By the time a student reaches his junior year, he may feel like an old hand at test taking. Remember the Iowa Basic Skills Test? Students these days are bombarded by countless tests. Yet, the real fun doesn't begin until the junior year when college-bound students are faced with such rigorous trials as the P.S.A.T., the A.C.T., and possibly the S.A.T. as well. What do all these tests mean? Does a low score indicate poor achievement or just poor test-taking skills?

The people who administer the tests say that studying for them does little good, if any. Since the test measures knowledge accumulated over many years, cramming is useless. The best advice is get plenty of rest the night before.

Now A Few Words From Our Sponsor

A counselor's job might be easier if only he could advertise the different courses through commercials. Imagine this blaring from the loud speaker during home room.

"Yes, friends, you too can learn to make rotten egg gas! Spend hours of enjoyment watching the centrifuge spin 'round and 'round and 'round. In addition, advanced chemistry will deal with the following provocative subjects: Coulombs (how they differ from warm lambs), Hydrogen Ions (find out why the little devils cling together), Moles (not the furry kind), and even watch your skin brown by dropping silver nitrate on it.

"If you register now, both the lecture and laboratory classes will be yours in one small package; and if you order before midnight, you will receive a special package."

Breakfast: What A Way To Start The Day

Does your family gather around the formica in the morning for bacon, eggs and Florida orange juice? Probably not.

If you overslept, you probably skip breakfast. The rest of you may stumble through a dark living room to the kitchen to toss down last night's cold pizza. Palm-shading sleepy eyes from the flourescent glare, you try not to dribble chocolate milk on your jamies. Is that any way to start your day?

Often kids get into a breakfast rut, eating the same favorite meal for years. One girl dunks buttered toast in chocolate milk. Have you ever tried to ace an algebra test with soggy toast in the pit of your stomach?

Somewhere there may exist the "perfect" household where mom bustles around at 7 a.m. in pearls and flawless hairdo, pouring milk and scrambling eggs. But in most homes that can only be found in "Leave It To Beaver" re-runs.

James K. Polk Honoree At Birthday Party

The sounds of "Happy Birthday James K. Polk" were heard echoing from the room of history teacher Ralph Barker. During a recent historical celebration, James K. Polk was the honoree. November second marked the day of his birthday and Mr. Barker believes him to be the greatest president of all.

The celebration included speeches and poems prepared by interested students, and various goodies were brought by volunteers.

Toyland Revisited

Has Toyland changed? Are the toys we wished for when we talked to Santa in 1968 still popular today? Remember the Barbie Dolls and little red wagons we used to ogle.

Today, not just departments, but entire stores are devoted to the gratification of the desires of youngsters. Farrah-Fawcett-Majors dolls abound. Bionic Women and Stretch Armstrong dolls gaze down row upon row, and anatomically realistic dolls fascinate the children and evoke comments from their grandparents. Popular too, are monster, micronauts, and anything with a "Star-Wars" theme.

At least one still cares for Matchbox cars. Becky Corzilius, a junior, has collected the miniatures since age seven and still expects Matchbox cars at Christmas.

"Almost Everything Went" In "Almost Anything Goes"

Participating in the Student Council's second "Almost Anything Goes" Christmas assembly, "almost everything went" for the juniors, led by their class officers, Dana Harris, Rocky Lupardus, Brian Ropac, and Kim Rapp plus teammates, Doug Irvin, Kathy Becherer, Suzy Neubauer and Bryan Schmidtke.

Competition was tense in the shoe race, scooter relay, basketball relay, tricycle race, three-legged sack race, blind-folded horseback race and the all-time favorite, the blind-folded pie-feeding contest.

Juniors came in second overall but leaped near victory in the three-legged sack race. The representatives took second in the tricycle relay race. They also won first place honors in basketball, upsetting a powerhouse faculty team. Evidently the Monday night basketball rehearsal paid off.

There was one near casualty as Doug Irvin, misdirected by Kathy Becherer, collided with the bleachers in the blind-folded horse race. The juniors were never able to overcome that handicap.

In an interview following the assembly, one unnamed contender, while nursing multiple bruises, complained the "tricycles and scooters could have used some oil, and the basketball could have been round."

The team as a whole made the original observation, in the tradition of great teams everywhere, "Wait'll next year!"

Mock Ceremony Ties The Knot For Four

Throughout the semester the Personal and Family Living classes have been studying personality development, dating, love, engagements, and types of weddings.

One of the assignments was to hold a traditional-type wedding. All of the work for the wedding was done by students including the catering, sewing the dresses for the brides and bridesmaids, making the flowers and bouquets, designing and printing the invitations, taking pictures and even writing their own ceremonies.

Miss Lichter's Creative Cooking class provided the wedding cakes and were invited to attend as guests.

Reverend Jeff Smith of Community Heights Assembly of God Church, offered the use of his church and volunteered to help.

On December 2, 1977, the mock wedding began, uniting Lydia Kachigian with Erich Miller and Stephanie Brandt with Rollin Bickell.

Overcoming The Freshman Syndrome

Emerging from one's freshman year is an eagerly awaited advancement for the first year high school students. Perhaps the most difficult aspect of being a freshman is dealing with the haughty attitudes of the upperclassmen, who direct freshmen to the lunch room six blocks away. As a sophomore, however, after the initiation has been endured, many students feel that attitudes toward them are more favorable.

When asked how he felt, Brad Peterson stated, "The other people don't torture me about being a freshman anymore." Similarly, Harriet Crosby replied, "People don't put you down as much as when you were a freshman." Mary Paterson felt that the sophomores have matured and overcome their foolishness, with noticeable results.

Many students find more acceptance and involvement in their sophomore year.

Not only do the attitudes of other students change, but teachers also regard sophomores differently. Karen Kelly commented, "They expect more out of you when you're a sophomore." Teachers often treat students more respectfully after they become sophomores.

Thus, along with the advancement from one's freshman year comes a feeling of acceptance among his peers and instructors.

Sophomores Suggest Improvements

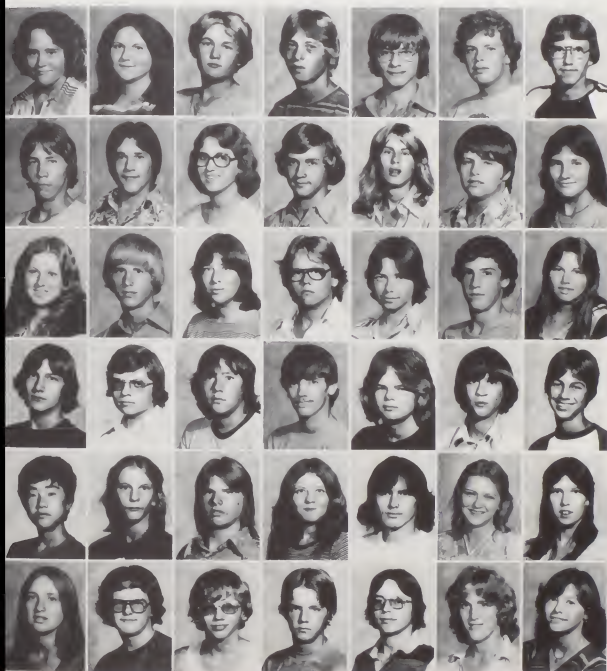

Although most of the students at South are satisfied with the programs of the school, some feel that there is room for improvement. A common complaint concerns lunch/study hour. Students would prefer an hour lunch, exempt from half-hour study halls. Many also feel that a seven minute break between classes is inadequate and want more time. Still others would shorten the homeroom period or eliminate it altogether.

The most immediate change, however, would be made in the final exam policy. Students reason that since North is allowed a two day absence each semester, South should be granted the same.

Despite the dissatisfaction that some students feel, others are content. Mary Paterson replied, "I really love South, the teachers, and all of the students here. There is nothing at all that I would like to change at South. I hope nobody else ever changes anything."

Don't Tease Hercules

Dissecting worms, frogs, fish, and baby pigs often causes a loss of appetite to sophomores. If the sight of the preserved animal doesn't affect the student, the odor of formaldehyde will. Despite the unpleasant smell, however, most students find the task of dissecting very interesting.

Another object of interest is the 4½ foot long boa constrictor, Hercules. Although the snake is docile, students are warned not to tease or harass him.

Made For Walking

For practical purposes as well as style, boots have gained a new popularity. Students found that during the cold winter months, boots provided additional warmth and were also useful in the slushy snow and rain.

But perhaps the sudden, increasing popularity of boots can be attributed to fashion. With gauchos, knickers, or just jeans, boots add that something extra. Whether to achieve a casual or sophisticated look, boots seem to be the latest fad.

Wheels Replace Legs

With their social activities restricted to those of a pedestrian, most students feel liberated after they obtain their driver's license. Instead of the usual Friday night movies-Burger King-McDonald's routine, they can attend drive-ins, rock concerts, or out-of-town sports events. To a new driver the advantages of having transportation are endless.

Although receiving their license solves many students' entertainment problems, it also presents some new ones. Persuading parents to trust an inexperienced driver with the family car is an often dreaded task. Nevertheless, after overcoming this obstacle, the new drivers must prove their competence. With this in mind, they drive in constant fear of incurring damage to the much emphasized "family" car. There also exists the ever present fear of being denied usage of the car as a result of household disagreements. They then must become pedestrians or nervous drivers.

Underclassmen Express Their Enthusiasm

Displayed at innumerable pep rallies and sports events, the school spirit of the sophomores is obvious. Lori Derossett described her class as having "a lot of enthusiasm and participation." To demonstrate this, many sophomores joined the Red Peppers and participated in such activities as decorating the halls for color day, designing hoops for sports events, and encouraging athletes through "secret pals."

With positive opinions, the sophomores look to the future with optimism. Ann Modrusic revealed her confidence in the sophomore class by saying "I think they're great! They like to get involved and will keep things going for the next two years."

1. Mark Ryan and Doug Spalding display their enthusiasm when Doug models a dress much to the amusement of his math class. 2. Carrie Petrovich expresses her by signing a Warrior yearbook. 3. Jackie Bogosian and Cindy Parente think sophomores have the most spirit.

Follies Are Popular

Each semester the Oral Communications classes present their annual Follies in the school auditorium. Student participation is the key factor in these productions for they write their own skits, design their own costumes, and provide their own props.

The Follies are popular among students because it gives them experience in preparing a stage presentation and the opportunity to perform before an audience.

Sophomores Compete In Anything Goes

The sophomore team was not victorious at the "Almost Anything Goes" assembly, tying for second place with the juniors. The sophomore competitors included class officers Drue Clement, Lori Derossett, Tracy Dimock, Rodney Lupardus, and four volunteer contestants: Sue Bell, Jackie Bogosian, Jack Burnett, and Greg Powderly.

During the first half of the competition, it looked as though they would win the contest. The turning point for the sophomores occurred in the tricycle race when they failed to score. From then on it went downhill for the underclassmen, whereas the seniors came from behind to capture first place.

A Break In Action

For twelve, leisure-filled days, students enjoyed their Christmas vacation and occupied themselves with the pastime of their choice. Sleeping late proved to be a favorite means of whiling away the morning hours, and in the afternoon it was time to watch game shows and soap operas.

On December 28th and 29th, many students attended the holiday wrestling tournament and helped to cheer South's matmen on to victory. Then came the final weekend of the vacation, which was to be utilized to its fullest by each one. Avid partiers began their celebration of the New Year and welcomed it appropriately.

All too quickly it was January 3, 1978, and students dragged themselves back to school. However, they soon resumed their usual routines and began counting the days until Easter vacation.

Sophomores Choose New Occupations

Designed to increase students' awareness of various occupational fields, a series of career activities were introduced to sophomores. The program was to be a follow-up from a seven week course which freshmen attended last year.

During study hall periods, the group activities took place. Mrs. Adkerson explained that the main intentions of the program were to encourage students to explore new occupational fields and do away with stereotypes when choosing a career.

Just One Of Many

One of the first experiences freshmen face is being photographed and filed by computers for future reference. No longer can they expect to be regarded as singular individuals, for now they are only one of the 879 members in their class.

To represent these numbers, there is a need for the student body to elect class officers. Elected by the freshmen class were Randy Lupardus, Rhonda Jackson, Sandy Lathrop, and Mark Clement. These students were chosen because of their potential leadership qualities.

Fawcett Mane To Hamil Short And Sassy

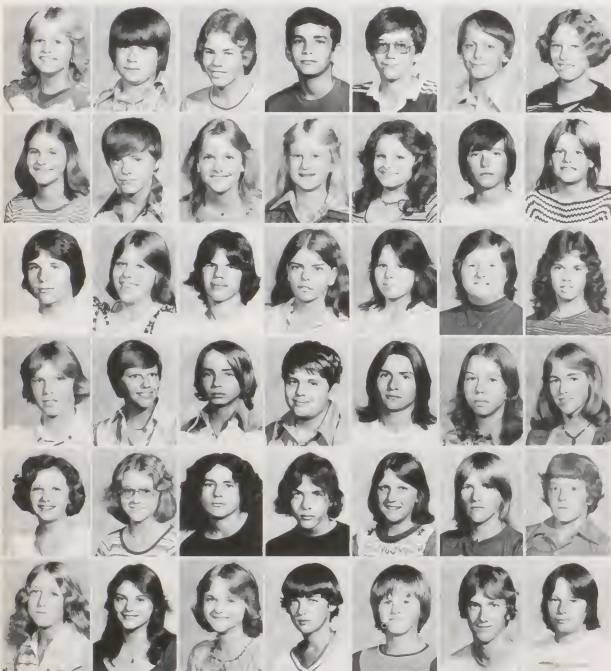

Hairstyles have been a big part of the fashion trend this year. Guys as well as girls have displayed a great interest in their appearance.

Girls have varied their hairstyles from the Farrah Fawcett mane to the Dorothy Hamil wedge. Guys have undergone a significant change from shoulder length to an impressive shorter cut. So, on the subject of hair, that's the long and short of it.

What's Your Excuse For Being Late?

Freshmen are highly imaginative. Their excuses are ingenious; yet, students are naive to think that they are getting by with something.

For instance, when a freshman is late for class, he can always rely on, "I got lost in the halls." But that excuse is only good for about a week for ordinary students, a month for freshmen, and almost forever for teachers.

Most, however, realize that they must be more original and therefore arrive at the following: "I went to the wrong room;" "I forgot my book;" "I had to come all the way over from Coolidge!" "The teacher kept the class after the bell;" and "The bell must have rung early."

The excuses are more unbelievable when the students forget to do homework. They always try to outsmart the teacher by saying: "My dog chewed it up;" "It got ruined in the wash;" "I left it in my friend's locker;" "My mother cleaned up my room and she threw it away;" "I put it in a library book and returned it to the library. When I went back to get it, someone had checked the book out;" or the old faithful; "I left it at home." Undoubtedly, as the freshmen mature, the excuses will improve.

One Misused Hour

Perhaps one of the most misused hours in the day is the study hall. In this period many tasks could be accomplished such as studying for the next hour exam or doing homework for a math or English class.

Unfortunately, many spend time catching up on the latest gossip, passing notes, doodling on book covers, or chewing their pencils. Others just stare into space.

By using this time wisely, many students could avoid having to lug heavy books home, especially when a special on television beckons.

Foreign Languages Live On At South

In the freshmen year, foreign languages are an important part of the curriculum. Students interested can choose from four languages: German, Spanish, Latin, and French.

French is a romance language which has a rich legacy of literature. Many do not realize that at one time French was recognized as an international language in both diplomacy and trade.

Latin is an extremely important language. Over sixty percent of the English language is derived from Latin. As a student of Latin, one can also appreciate the Roman civilization. Marsha Curtis remarked that, "Mr. Grabowski really knows what he is talking about and he wants you to understand what's going on."

These two languages provide background in vocabulary and grammar and can help students learn their own language as well as others.

Freshmen Capture Fourth In Battle

The freshmen put up a good fight in this year's "Almost Anything Goes" assembly. The freshmen team included Randy Lupardus, Sandy Lathrop, Mark Clement, Rhonda Jackson, Greg Davis, Suzanne Pashea, Dave Fernandez, and Karen Spencer.

The first event was a shoe scramble, which led to some interesting discoveries—the freshmen could not tell their left shoe from their right. In the pie-eating contest the freshmen took the cake. In fact, they even got creamed.

What's So Odd About A Freshman?

Since most freshmen aren't old enough to get a real job, almost any job they can do falls under one simple name—the odd job. Girls can either babysit, clean house, or wash windows, while guys can shovel snow, mow lawns, or rake leaves.

The jobs available are only limited by the imagination of those willing to work. (And we know the freshman imagination has no limit!) So just remember, the next time you look into an empty wallet, there are odd jobs available to all.

The Weekend—What A Break!

Every Friday at 3:20 students are set free to attend sport events or parties. Students can either congregate at favorite fast food joints after games or just cruise around Granite City looking for excitement.

To Pam Snelson weekends

mean, "going to dances, parties, or games." Randy Lupardus felt they are "fun and a time to rest." Mark Clark said that weekends mean, "sleeping late!" Everyone has one idea in mind when it comes to weekends—having fun!

The Trials And Tribulations Of Typing

Freshmen find out if they have any manual dexterity by taking typing. All start out with a feeling of confidence but quickly divide into various classifications.

Type A finds out that each hand is blessed with five thumbs—their case is hopeless. Type B finds out that one hand has coordination and the other hand is a complete stranger. Type C has delightful coordination. Do you fall into one of these categories, or are you in a class all your own?

Freshmen—The Lowest Form Of Life?

After years of meager existence, and after finally having achieved the top seniority at junior high, one is suddenly pushed into the big high school. All of a sudden, you're not even important enough to ignore. On top of this, freshmen don't know their way around, and with the friendly help of upperclassmen, probably never will.

Think back to the first week of school. That was the week that the upperclassmen were asked to help freshmen find their way to classes; that was also the week the elevator tickets went on sale.

To avoid these hassles a freshman can either: a) wear hand me downs in P.E. (new suits and shorts are a dead give-away.) b) don't trust anyone over four feet tall, or c) become a sophomore. This leaves very few alternatives until next year.

Passing Time Away

During the hectic school schedule of a five day week, seven hour day, and a thirty-six week a year, there is a definite need for some kind of a break.

To break the monotony, each student has discovered his own method for relaxing, whether it is enjoying a hobby or sport, watching television, or even just reading a good book.

During school, as the weekend approaches, daydreaming is also a favorite pastime, for some an occupation. Others have found their enjoyment during lunch hours birdwatching.

Freshmen Preplexed By Science Courses

Freshmen are naturally apprehensive when they go to biology class because the upperclassmen have given them a gory but exaggerated description about dissecting. So when freshmen actually attempt to dissect an animal, they are in a near state of collapse.

From there they go to the microscope only to find small, wiggly things staring up at them from a drop of water. Some of them never drink water again.

Others can be seen trying to mix chemicals together without causing an explosion.

Many Teachers Moonlight At BAC

Three-twenty is the end of the school day for students, but many teachers find themselves returning at night to teach Belleville Area College extension courses. Classes are taught Monday through Thursday, but individual subjects are taught only one night each week. Eleven South teachers participate in this program, teaching classes such as Food Service and Sanitation, and Machine Shop.

Located between rooms 131 and 133, the BAC office provides all necessary information to enroll in the various courses. Many beginning, as well as experienced, secretaries find themselves returning to school to brush-up on their shorthand and typing; while others return to complete their high school education. The carpenter's union also sends young men to the extension courses to complete their apprenticeship.

"The extension center offers college credit courses for those individuals that plan to continue their education after high school graduation. The extension course also offers general study courses such as oil painting, astrology, refresher typing, refresher shorthand and other courses that polish skills," commented Mr. Steve Brown, supervisor of the BAC evening extension.

'You'll Be Amazed' Theme Of Open House

This year's open house program was changed considerably. The new program was organized by a committee of Betty Bartels, LaVerna Corbitt, Muriel Kratz, Al Lewis, Ann Rich, Phyllis Weiss, Bill Smoltz and Sonya Adkerson.

The main difference from last year's agenda and this year's was the time slot. The old method of having an open house was to allow parents to visit the school during class hours; the turnout for this was slim. This year the annual event was held during the evening hours in order to attract the entire family. The new approach was also designed to convey a feeling of closeness between the faculty, students, and parents.

"'You'll Be Amazed' was the theme of our open house this year—and I really was amazed when over 600 people showed up! All the hard work in planning and organizing open house was well worth it. I'm very excited about parents and faculty working together for the benefit of the students," stated Mrs. Adkerson.

The evening began with the stage band performing in the auditorium followed by a panel discussion on discipline in the public schools. Participants in the discussion were Mr. Dumont, Mr. Spalding, Mrs. Nelson, Mr. Barker, and two parents, Mrs. Scott Daniels and Mr. Paul Burkhart.

The second part of the program was more of a social event. Parents met with teachers to ask questions concerning classes and the progress of their children. Demonstrations were also given at this time. A few examples of these demonstrations were badminton, cookie decorating, a basketball scrimmage, wrestling matches, dancing, and a station to check blood pressure. Slides of Mr. Rensing's trip to Africa were also shown. All together the evening was an enlightening experience for parents, teachers and students.

Wonder Where You Heard That Before?

Now look it (Mr. Lewis), many teachers complain about the limited vocabulary of students, you see (Mr. Wojcik). Little do they realize, however, that they often use pet phrases that drive us up the wall (Mrs. Hormell). You know what I mean (Mr. Wojcik)?

At any rate, (Mr. Kasproovich) shall we say (Mrs. Schafer) students need to improve their vocabulary? Consider this (Art Eardly), as far as this is concerned (Mrs. Schafer), if ya' all (Mrs. Hill) want to improve your vocabulary, listen to the teachers.

It's tragic, fellows and gals (Mr. Champion), that the state of English has deteriorated to such a low level. As Grandma McKeahan always said (Mr. McKeahan), "Did I ever tell you this story (Mr. Gattung)—the one about the student who did poorly on SAT test because of a weak vocabulary?"

Students often tell teachers "Give me a break (Mr. Bunting)! Land no (Mr. Zebio), I can't be studying every minute. Well anyway (Mr. Kasproovich), I can talk so that my friends understand me."

So let me tell you (Mrs. DeLay), that students need to number one (Miss Kuenstler as she stands in her doorway) improve their vocabulary.

So go to it, babe (Mr. Huckaby)!

Here's The Scoop

Over the Thanksgiving holidays, Miss Ruth Noeth traveled to Denver, Colorado, to participate in the United States Field Hockey Association National Tournament. She was selected to play on the Midwest Team, an all-star team consisting of club players from Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas. Miss Noeth played left halfback during the course of the regular season, but during tournament play she was switched to right halfback, a very important defensive position.

The USFHA National Tournament is the most prestigious tournament in the United States. The competition was very keen; there were 39 teams, each team representing a region of the U.S. The Midwest Team placed 17th with a record of 2 wins, 3 ties and 2 losses.

Miss Noeth also participated on the 1975 Midwest Team when the national competition was held in Virginia. She viewed this year's team as being stronger than the 1975 team since, their overall record was much better.

Field hockey will become an olympic event in 1980. Miss Noeth is very happy that field hockey is finally receiving international recognition.

Santa Delights All

On Monday, December 12, the faculty held its annual Christmas party. Administrators, teachers and their families made up the crowd of over one hundred people.

After dinner, Rick Singleton led the singing of carols. Then a drawing was held for the table centerpieces, made by Mr. Eugene Aiassi.

Santa entered the cafeteria with a hearty HO-HO-HO to pass out gifts to the children.

Behind The Scene

Shuffling through the doors of Granite South at 7:45 each morning is a daily routine for students. What we don't realize is that there are very important people who cause this "daily routine" to function properly. The many hours of typing and paperwork done by the secretaries most often goes unrecognized. They perform many essential tasks; for example, Mrs. Mitchell operates the switchboard and Mrs. Kennerly takes care of school funds. Secretaries are located in the many offices throughout the school and are a very vital part of the school system.

Other important duties that also go unrecognized are those of the custodians and cooks. The custodians keep us comfortable during the winter months and clean the entire school each night at the close of school. This itself can become a tremendous task. The custodians also spend many hours keeping the furnaces operating, such as on Christmas day, while most of us were at home with our families. The cooks provide us with hot meals at lunchtime. It is their duty to see that students are properly and promptly fed. Try to imagine walking into the cafeteria at lunch with no food ready; experiencing this would bring us to appreciate them more.

Keeping student behavior under control is one job of the monitors, Jeff Larner and Rick Singleton. Working as a team, these men police the school area keeping unauthorized students out of the building and enforcing proper school conduct. While we take all these people for granted, we do not realize that without them the school system would not function at all.

Honorary Societies Induct Members

This year forty-three new students were accepted into National Honor Society, which requires a 4.2 or above accumulative grade point average. The formal initiation was held March 6. During the ceremony the new members agreed to uphold the rules of N.H.S. Afterwards the parents were invited to a tea prepared by the home economics department.

Members are obligated to work in the paperback store. NHS also published the literary magazine TOUCHSTONE.

At the end of the semester a picnic is held in honor of graduating seniors.

Quill and Scroll is an honorary society of journalism students. The Society's requirements consist of being a HIGH WORLD or WARRIOR YEARBOOK staff member and having an accumulative grade point average of 3.75. Each spring a formal initiation is held to induct new member.

Students Promote South's Reputation

Contributing to South's reputation are the recipients of many honors.

In the January issue of ILLINOIS HISTORY, Alan Shephard wrote an article, "Disaster at Wann."

The English department selected four students, Sandra Forte, Steven Junot, Karen Hornback and Vahe Habesian, to compete for the annual National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards. They were to enter what they considered their best sample of writing, and they also wrote an impromptu theme.

Doug Teaney and Bill Metcalf were National Merit Semifinalists.

Alice Hoffman, Linda Rhodes, Doug Clark, Paul Gray and Wally DeShon received a letter of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Ron Backs was a county finalist for the Daughters of American Revolution essay contest.

The members of Readers Theater competed at various speech contests.

All these students, together with the various sports teams, help add to Granite South's reputation.

Rehearsing Pays

"Every year since 1920 students from Granite City have advanced to state in speech. No other school in the state has that kind of record," stated Mr. King very proudly. This year the Individual Events group, directed by Richard King, hosted the Belleville East tournament, Sectionals and Districts in South's auditorium.

Out of the eleven catagories set by the IHSA the students pick their own cuttings and do their own speeches. Mr. King helps them in their interpretation.

Scott Clement and Cindy Durborow advanced to the finals in a Waterloo tourney and Laurie Fererre also advanced to the finals.

Debaters, Yea & Nay

"Resolved: That the federal government should guarantee comprehensive medical care for all citizens of the United States." This was the topic the South Debaters argued, both the negative and affirmative sides, from October until March. Under the direction of a new sponsor, Mrs. Wendy Kambarian, the debate team prepared by reading magazines, medical journals and source booklets. From their studies they prepared evidence to use in debates.

The debates are judged in rounds; the judge of each round takes notes of what arguments each team uses and how well they are presented. At the end of the last speech, the judge decides which team was the most convincing. The winners of these rounds advance to a final round where there are three judges.

This year's team has done very well, capturing second place in a Waterloo tourney. At that tourney Kim Johnson was awarded a Speaker's Award.

ON STAGE

Many Students Perform For First Time

On November 17, Mr. Richard King directed two one act plays, Lovers and The Long Christmas Dinner.

In the play Lovers, by Brian Friel, a lively girl of seventeen, Maggie, played by Kit Walmsley, was a modern-day teenager. Larry Heagy portrayed Joe as a studious young man of seventeen and a half. "It was my first attempt at acting and I was really scared about going on stage for the very first time," commented Larry Heagy.

The play opened with the young couple in love and about to be married in three weeks because of Maggie's pregnancy.

To help the continuity of the play, two narrators, Melvin Pashea and Belinda Youngkin introduced the characters, discussed their backgrounds, and gave an epilogue.

The other one act play, The Long Christmas Dinner, by Thornton Wilder, covered a time period of 90 years. To show the passage of time and death the characters would slowly walk to the right side of the stage, stand in a green spotlight, and exit through the wings.

The significance of the play is the fact that the actors keep coming back to the table, generation after generation.

"Being in this play scared me when everything we said was being laughed at and it was a serious play," stated Claude Ohanesian. Both plays were performed well.

Felix Cleans Up Act

The ODD COUPLE, originally cast in 1971, was not presented with a new cast until February 1978, due to the burning of the auditorium. Mr. Smoltz and Mr. Padgett, playing the roles of Felix and Oscar, were on stage almost continuously.

The poker buddies of the duo, consisted of Mr. Jones as Roy, Mr. Wilbur as Speed, Mr. Chamness as henpecked Vinnie, and Mr. Pennell as the Brooklyn policeman Murray.

Complimenting these roles, were the Pigeon sisters, played by Ms. Evans and Ms. Lichter. Their giggles resounded through the auditorium.

For the second consecutive year, Ron Pennell directed the play and plans to do so again.

Host And Perform

Homecoming is the most active time of the year for the Speech and Theater Club. During that time many students were busy as cast members and technical crew members, for the Homecoming play, GODSPELL. The club sponsored the Homecoming dance with the band Allspice. They also were responsible for the preparation and selection of the Court for the coronation ceremony and the purchase of flowers.

The Speech and Theater Club sponsors one field trip every year to the American Theater. This year they attended the Nutcracker Ballet at the Powell Symphony hall and The Wiz. Members of the club judge the "Follies," original skits presented by the Oral Communication classes every semester.

To end the year, Speech and Theater Club held an awards banquet where trophies were awarded to the supporting members.

Plans And Designs

Stagecraft is a special class which trains technicians who are qualified to build sets and run light and sound equipment. Stagecraft also handles ticket sales, programs, and publicity. They are in charge of all the programs held in the auditorium.

Approximately 115 programs are produced each year ranging from band concerts to community speakers. Keeping the stage clean and in good repair is another job.

Many students enjoyed attending the Illinois Theater Festival on January 5, 6, and 7. Here they learned about the theater as a technical field career.

Chorus Tapes Songs

Selling Dutch Crunch candy bars enabled the Vocal Club to raise enough money to attend SOUTH PACIFIC at the American Theater. Second and sixth hour mixed choruses gave a performance during open house.

While visiting Channel 30, advanced mixed taped Christmas carols which were aired during the Yuletide season. For the Tree of Lights ceremony, the group performed at City Hall.

Other vocal activities included an all-city choral festival, and a spring concert. Incorporating dances and costumes, the spring concert featured a variety of music from anthems to barbershop quartets to disco to show music.

Senior vocal awards were presented at a spring banquet with Madrigals entertaining.

Dedicated Students Work Hard In Band

From one week before school started until commencement, there was one group of students that was seen at many school functions. This dedicated group of students was none other than the band.

Under the direction of Mr. Terry Waffler, the band filled the football field and the gym with inspiring music at every football and basketball game. "Rocky" was the most popular song performed.

Other band activities included pep rallies, the Homecoming parade, May Festival, and commencement, besides giving four concert band performances and two stage band concerts. In addition, they were responsible for the music for the spring play.

Miniature Construction Company At Work

After another successful year, Building Trades must start again from scratch and construct a brand new home. The class, taught by Mr. Larry King, is a vocational course in which students learn about jobs in the construction field. Students learn about carpentry, masonry, painting, concrete work, roofing, and drywalling. Meeting three hours a day for five days a week, students work together under the supervision of Mr. King to complete a modern house.

Students who wish to enter the course must first pass the following prerequisites: Orientation to Industrial Occupations, Industrial Arts and Vocational Measurements, Woods, and Drafting. Then the students must receive a permit from Mr. King for their junior and senior years.

In the course the students learn about blueprint reading, computations, job planning, proper working habits, the use of hand and machine tools and other important skills. Through the experiences gained in the course, the student is able to decide which area of construction industry he wants to enter.

Ambitious Students Join The Job Field

Near the end of high school students get the summer time blues because employers rarely hire students without some training. Co-op tries to eliminate the problem by furnishing students with a steady job during school and by introducing them to the working world.

Although students have a chance to work, they still must attend classes. From the co-op program, students learn the importance of study time and the value of getting good grades. While working, students participate in such courses as Office Occupation Problems and Service Occupation.

Students hold a variety of jobs such as a gas station attendant, short order cook, and secretary. "Working can be enjoyable," Greg Harris stated, "and Co-op is a good thing. You can work at a job and after graduation, you can continue working or go to a trade school."

Even though the students gain important experience, the students enjoy the additional spending money.

Warriors, You Make Me Feel Like Cheering

This fall the junior varsity football and soccer team were cheered on by seven spirited and lively sophomore girls. They were the new junior varsity cheerleading squad organized for the first time this year. Sponsored by Mrs. Charbonnier, the girls were required to be active in Red Peppers one season the preceeding year. Varsity cheerleaders, headed by Mrs. Beck, also had to meet the same requirement.

To improve the quality and variety of cheers, five senior girls attended a camp sponsored by the National Cheerleading Association the last week of July at Illinois State University.

Student Council and the Lettermen's Club donated two hundred and fifty dollars to send the girls to camp. The cheerleaders earned the remaining needed money by selling candy.

The five girls chosen to go were Terri Deterding, Jennifer Boyer, Lisa Shelton, Lala Anselmo, and Cassie Schooley. They were selected by having earned the most points in tryouts.

Naturally, the highlight of the season was when the soccer cheerleaders went to De Kalb, home of Northern University, to cheer for the kickers during state competition at Husky Field.

In addition to supporting the teams at games, the cheerleaders also provided entertainment at pep assemblies. The soccer cheerleaders amused the student body with their version of "You Make Me Feel Like Dancing."

Pennants Add Spirit

This winter season there were not enough students signed up for cheerleading to have tryouts. So the students that did sign up, a group consisting of both returning cheerleaders as well as newcomers, became the winter sports cheerleaders. These girls devoted every Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday afternoon to practice gymnastics, sideline cheers and middle cheers.

Also this year all the cheerleaders earned money by selling pennants and pins. Each cheerleader was also obligated to find seven hours of work, receiving one dollar and fifty cents an hour. All the money will be divided among the cheerleading squads.

The varsity cheerleaders plan to use their money to send the senior cheerleaders to camp this summer. The rest of the money will be used to buy uniforms for the junior varsity cheerleaders.

Lettermen's Float Captures Second

The lettermen had a productive year this year with all the money-making projects and other activities. Since the selling of cheese last year was so successful, the project was repeated, adding sausage to the sale. Over seven hundred dollars was earned; John Krekovich won twenty dollars for selling the most.

The annual homecoming lettermen's float was based on the Black Sambo story. Sambo's donated a tiger suit that was worn by Mike Forshee; the other lettermen participating enjoyed the ride while feasting on pancakes.

The lettermen also sponsored a dance to add to their treasury.

On February 1, a donkey basketball game was held in the Memorial Gymnasium. The lettermen challenged faculty members and our cross-town rival North.

For four days during the week of January 9 any lettermen wanting to earn money for themselves, was given a job at Venture for helping employees with their inventory.

All the money raised during the year will go to the trip that the lettermen have been planning. The trip will be taken to the Lodge of the Four Seasons in June.

Secret Pals Help Build Athlete's Spirit

Red Peppers were always found screaming the familiar cry of W-A-R-R-I-O-R-S at all the various sports events. This fall the club was headed by a new sponsor, Miss Bishoff. Secret pals were repeated again because of their popularity during basketball and wrestling last year. Soccer and football players received many presents such as cakes, cards, candy, and hallways full of posters and signs.

Michele Valencia chose John Prazma as her secret pal. Decorating his locker, baking a cake, drawing posters, and writing secret pal messages were some of the ideas she used to encourage John. Brian Meehan's secret pal, Dana Harris, decorated not only the halls but his desk too. Sue Robinson made Warrior arrowhead cookies for her secret pal, Dan Manoogian.

A member needed to receive a total of one hundred points to become active. Scrapbooks were worth the largest amount, twenty-five. Attending a sport event was worth two points for a home game and five for an away game. Painting signs, selling gimmicks, and riding the pep buses were also a way of obtaining points.

Queens Selected

Once again the holiday and sectional queens were selected by the wrestling team. In order to vote, a wrestler had to at least wrestle in one varsity match during the season.

After several girls are nominated, the team votes on the girls who devote the most time to the wrestling team. The holiday queens have the honor of giving awards to the winning wrestlers at the Holiday Tournament.

In selecting Miss School Spirit, ballots were past out, and the athletes chose the girl whom they felt had supported them the most during the winter season. This year, Cheska Anselmo was chosen as the girl with the most spirit.

Injuries Plague Warriors Throughout The Entire Season

This year the football Warriors finished the season with a 2-7 mark. During the entire year the Warriors were plagued with injuries. Even before the first game, standout fullback Jay Huebner was out for the season with a broken leg. After the second game against O'Fallon, where he gained more than 100 yards rushing and was almost the entire offense, Cliff Moran also received a fracture to his leg. Numerous other minor injuries hampered the team throughout the season.

In the season opener against Jefferson City, Missouri, the Warriors were thoroughly trounced by the defending state champions from across the river to the tune of 41-0. The offense just was not able to get moving as they totaled only 28 yards. The defense was unable to contain the powerful Jays as they tallied 244 yards offense and scored six touchdowns.

In the second game in O'Fallon against the Panthers, Cliff Moran gained 136 yards rushing and scored two touchdowns. After allowing O'Fallon to score on their first possession, the Warrior defense shut off the Panthers for the remainder of the game. The Warriors "put it all together" and came away with a 13-7 victory. As a reward for his fine performance, Cliff Moran was named offensive player of the week by the METRO EAST JOURNAL.

Game three against the Lancers was almost a repeat performance of game one as Belleville East ripped the Warriors for 40 points and did not allow South a score. With the absence of Moran, Doyle Beard became the workhorse for the Warrior offense. Beard gained 70 yards in 24 carries. Mike Forshee, Warrior quarterback, gained 39 yards in 11 carries. Trailing 20-0 at the half, the Warriors marched to the Lancer's four yard line, only to be halted by a stiff defense on three goal line stands. The failure to score on that drive seemed to be the crushing blow and the Warriors were never in the game after that.

Against Cahokia, the Warriors equalled their record with a 7-0 victory. Jumping out to an early lead, the Warrior defense contained the Comanches the entire game. Dan Manoogian and Rob Rongey along with Jeff Parker were defensive standouts.

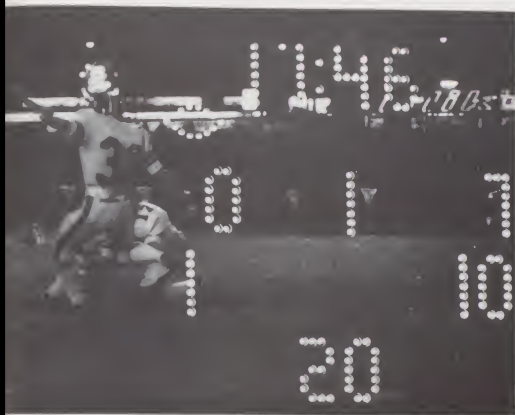

The annual homecoming game was played in absolutely deplorable conditions as the Warriors dropped their third game, 7-0, to Edwardsville. Unable to generate any offense, the defense once again staged a heroic performance, remaining on the field for three quarters of the contest. South held their opponents scoreless until late in the fourth quarter when the stalemate was finally broken.

Once again the inconsistency of the Warriors proved fatal as they journeyed to Collinsville for game six of the 1977 campaign. Jumping out to an early 6-0 lead on two Tim Kirksey field goals, the team seemed to fall apart, allowing 21 Kahok points to be registered in the second quarter. Interceptions impeded the Warrior offensive effort as passes from Mike Forshee were picked off by Collinsville defenders. Although the score did not indicate it, South was never out of the game, having many scoring opportunities only to be foiled time and time again.

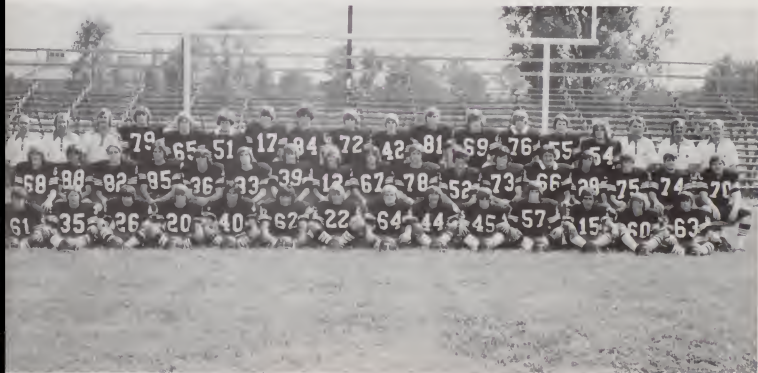

Traveling to Alton for the final away game of the season, the Warriors dropped another game. Losing 34-0 to the able Redbirds, South never really got started.

Granite Rock Lost In Close Battle

The season highlight, the South-North game had an explosive start. Dave Mahaffey took a hand-off from Doyle Beard on a reverse from the opening kick-off. Mahaffey went 95 yards for the score, the first points scored at home all year for the Warriors. Tim Kirksey added the conversion making the score 7-0. It stayed that way until late in the half when North tied with a touchdown of their own. The Warrior defense excelled, containing the Steelers most of the game. The defense stopped North on their own three and shut down their offense on all but a few plays. But the offense was unable to produce, resulting in a 17-7 defeat to our cross-town rivals.

Another team from over the river, Pattonville, came to Granite City stadium for the season's finish. In their best effort of the season, the Warriors lost in the final seconds, 9-6. Hard-hitting fullback, Tony Elliot, scored in the fourth quarter to tie the score. Both offense and defense climaxed their season with their best showings of the year. After achieving a tie, the Warriors regained the ball. Not content to settle for a tie, they went for the victory but were thrown for losses on two consecutive plays. A partially blocked punt set up the Pirates' final score.

Sophomores Compile Best Record

Nineteen seventy-seven was a good year for the sophomore football squad. Coach Lybarger's players finished with a 7-1 record, the finest in many years.

When the sophomores traveled to North, South jumped out to an early lead when Scott Poulson went over from one yard out. After North tied, Terry Singleton blocked the extra point kick. Then Jeff Bergbrader scored on a two yard run and Blake Ambuehl completed a pass to Kevin Sykes to round out the scoring. Tight end Lee Huebner and receiver Kevin Grenne also played important roles in setting up the Warrior scores.

For the freshmen it was a disappointing season. Ending with a 1-7 record, the freshmen were unable to get organized until the last game in which they defeated Belleville West 8-7, by completing a 2 point conversion.

South Compiles Record-Breaking Season

This year the Warrior soccer team again had the herculean task of defending its state title. Posting 23 wins against one loss and four ties, the Warriors climaxed their season for the second consecutive year by capturing the state championship. Granite South has not lost a game to an Illinois school in two years and allowed only a pair of ties against in state competition.

Jumping out to an almost unbelievable start by crushing Waterloo 16-0, the kickers set a new school record for most goals scored in a game. After easy victories in the next four games, the Warriors entered the prestigious Catholic Athletic Conference Tournament in St. Louis. This tournament has some of the finest competition in the nation.

In the first game against Kennedy High School, South dominated the game and strolled away with a 1-0 victory on a goal by Fred Schuler in the second period. In the second game the Warriors defeated Mercy, 3-0 on a goal from John Prazma and two from Mark Goldschmidt.

The semifinal game saw the Warriors drop their only game of the year to Vianney, 2-0. It was the first defeat in 29 outings for the kickers and ended a ten-game string of shutouts.

The following game with Aquinas, the only team to beat South the year before, was also a test. After trailing 2-0, the Warriors took advantage of ejections to the other team and tied the game with two goals in the final period.

After victories over Schurz and Roosevelt, both teams from Chicago, and a 1-1 tie with McCluer North came the big game: Granite North. With little exception, the Warriors dominated the flow of the ball throughout the game. Mark Goldschmidt put the Warriors on the score board first, scoring on a penalty kick in the first half. It appeared that the first half would end that way, but with only 57 seconds left, North scored on a penalty kick.

The second half was almost a duplicate of the first except that South's goal in this half was scored by David Goldschmidt. South continued to dominate the game until North scored their second goal on a disputed call. The South bench screamed "hand ball!" but there was no call; the goal was allowed to stand, and the game ended in a 2-2 deadlock.

The next three contests brought easy victories; then highly rated Hazelwood Central earned a 1-1 tie. South then coasted through the remainder of the season and into sectional competition.

Although much of the glory goes to the offense, paramount performances were given by defenders Joe Theis, Gary Phelps, John Krekovich, John Prazma, Dan DeRousse and Jack Burnett, allowing only 16 goals against South.

South Supports All-Star Company

South has made five appearances in state competition, more than any other team. Also South set a record for most shots on goal with 43, breaking their old record of 33, set a year ago. In taking those 43 shots, Granite City put the ball into the net more times than anyone else in a championship game with six. The Warriors scored the most goals in a state tournament with ten. The Granite City-Schurz game broke the record for most goals scored by two teams in a championship match with seven (6-1), breaking their own record of four set a year before.

Warrior Greg Feigl set a record for the quickest goal in tournament history, putting one in after just 54 seconds of play in the championship game. Greg also set a record by assisting on three goals.

In regular season, Mark Goldschmidt broke the state scoring record scoring 38 times and Greg Feigl, scoring 39 times, became the most prolific scorer in Illinois. David Fernandez set a new school record for assists with 26; he also added nine goals.

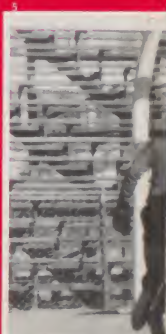

This year's soccer team was studded with stars. Warriors receiving recognition for superior skills by being named to the All-state team were Joe Theis and Mark Goldschmidt. In addition to being elected for three consecutive years to the All-state team, Mark Goldschmidt was also named captain of the team.

Players named to the All-tournament team were Gary Phelps, David Fernandez, Joe Theis and Mark Goldschmidt. Honorable mention went to Barry Briggs, goalie, David Goldschmidt and Greg Feigl, forwards.

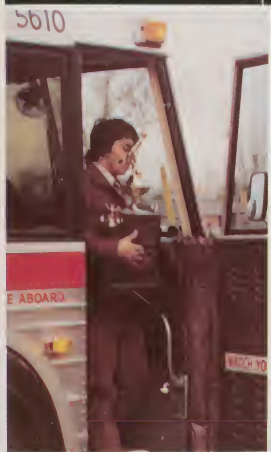

All-Metro-East honors were given to forwards Mark and David Goldschmidt, Greg Feigl, defenders Joe Theis, Gary Phelps, and goalie Barry Briggs. The Warriors composed more than one half of the All-Metro-East team.

With celebrities such as these, this amazing team produced many new records. Foremost of these was the fact that Granite City has won the state championship three out of the six times it has been held, the last two in succession.

Other high point men were David Goldschmidt with 16 goals and six assists; Fred Schuler had 11 goals and 5 assists; Joe Theis had 7 goals and 5 assists to round out South's scoring attack.

G. C. Retains Crown

In the first game against New Trier East, the Warriors fell behind quickly when the Indians scored on a penalty kick in the first quarter. Utilizing the strong winds, David Goldschmidt tied the score with a blast into the right corner of the foe's net. John Prazma received an assist. Play then settled down, along with the wind, until the fourth quarter, when Greg Feigl, assisted by Mark Goldschmidt and David Fernandez, put the Warriors on top, 2-1.

Advancing to the semifinals, the Warriors were pitted against Wheaton Central, their opponent in the championship game a year before. South dominated play throughout a scoreless first half, then in the third quarter Wheaton was awarded a penalty kick. Goalie Barry Briggs made a spectacular save but allowed the ball to rebound, permitting the Tigers to score. Again trailing, South kickers began putting intense pressure on the Wheaton goal. In the fourth period, Mark Goldschmidt scored his first goal of the tournament. Driving down the right side, Mark exploded with a shot from an almost impossible angle that rocketed past the Tiger goalie. Twelve minutes after Goldschmidt's goal, Fred Schuler took a pass from Dan Der Rouse and headed the ball ten yards into the net. South now would defend its title.

In the final game, South faced Schurz, a team from Chicago that they had embarrassed 5-0 when Schurz traveled to Granite City during the regular season. Despite this, Schurz was not a pushover, as they had outscored their opponents 7-0 in the first two games. After only 54 seconds of play, Greg Feigl, with an assist from Mark Goldschmidt, slammed the ball into the net for a quick 1-0 lead. But within the next minute of play, Schurz scored on a break away.... Play then quieted for the next seven minutes until Mark Goldschmidt scored on a penalty kick putting South out in front starting a rash of Warrior goals.

Subsequent goals were scored by Fred Schuler, his second of the tourney, assisted by Feigl; then freshman David Fernandez scored, assisted by David Goldschmidt; Mark Goldschmidt scored his second goal of the game, on an assist from Feigl; David Goldschmidt ended the scoring, assisted by brother Mark. With these last goals, the Warriors set a new record for most goals scored in a state tournament with ten.

South Triumphs Again

In the sectionals, South smashed Cahokia in the first game, 5-0. The second game against cross-town rival North was another exciting contest.

As usual, the Warriors outplayed their foes but were unable to put the ball into the net until the fourth period when Mark Goldschmidt took a pass at point blank range from Greg Feigl and fired it past North's goalie for a 1-0 lead.

But less than two minutes later, North tied the score and with the ensuing darkness, it appeared that the game would have to be replayed. Then with 58 seconds left to play, Greg Feigl blasted the ball into the net to give the Warriors a 2-1 victory.

In the last game, Collinsville made an impressive showing until David Goldschmidt booted in a penalty kick in the third period. Later Greg Feigl scored after one minute of play in the fourth quarter. Mark Goldschmidt scored the final goal to clinch the sectionals with a 3-0 triumph.

JV Vital To Varsity

The JV soccer team plays an important part in building varsity teams. This year Coach Bunting led the underclassmen to an 8-2-1 season record. With the help of high scorer Randy DeRousse, the Warriors out scored their foes, putting the ball in the net 36 times compared to only 8 goals scored against them, thanks to fine goal tending by Andy Costello and Alex Paz, who also collected the most shutouts.

As a team, the young kickers had their best games against Rosary, which they won 3-0 and St. Thomas Aquanis where they tied 1-1. These were two of the finest teams in the area.

Although they played an abbreviated schedule, the junior varsity is a vital part of the varsity team. They supply the varsity players with excellent competition for practice sessions and scrimmages.

As a tribute to the underclass players, Coach Baker has stated that the JV team is better than most of the local varsity competition.

Warriors Shut Out North In Overtime

Ending with a 3-7 record, the Warrior field hockey team was mainly concerned with rebuilding this year.

Besides losing a few players to volleyball, the team had only four seniors. Eight players were lost in last year's graduation.

With the bulk of the team being underclassmen, the future looks encouraging. Valuable experience was gained even though the record didn't show it.

"The games weren't as bad as the scores showed," said Miss Mitchell. "They were a fine, devoted group of girls."

The highlight of the season occurred when South defeated North in overtime as Tammy Keeton slammed a shot past Steelers' goalie.

Netters Gain Valuable Experience

"They were a group of dedicated girls; they worked hard but had the lack of experience," stated Ms. Schulze as she summed up the season.

The spikers lost their experience last year to graduation; in fact, they lost five of their six starters. The only returning players were Danna Depew and Mary Livingston, the only returning letterperson. The lack of experience showed as the netters wound up the season with 4 wins and 11 losses. These wins were against Roxana and Red Bud. The most outstanding game was slaughtering cross-town rival North 20-2 and 20-6. South did advance to Districts in East St. Louis but lost to Lincoln in the first round, 20-17, 11-20, 13-20.

The only thing the spikers gained from this season was experience which may prove beneficial for next year's team.

Four Girls Advance To Districts

The Warriorettes greeted a new coach, Ms. Yates, as they began an eleven game season. The girls concluded their season with 8 wins and 3 losses.

Junior, Christy Bauer was voted best all-round player by Coach Pat Yates. Christy finished the season with a 7-4 record. Laura Gabriel, a sophomore, completed her season with 10 wins and 1 loss giving her the best record on the team.

Mary Ellen Hutchings and Susan Bell doubled up to perform as the best doubles couple and ended with 6 wins, 4 losses and 1 tie. Also in doubles competition Jane Matoesian teamed up with Susan Squires to finish with an 8-3 record as did Agatha Grabowski and Sherri Depew.

One doubles team and two singles advanced to Districts, but all three were eliminated in the third round. Coach Yates commented on the season by saying, "The kids were a great group to work with and had a lot of ability. All in all, everyone had a winning season."

Strong Beginning Boosts Warrior Runners

The Warriors had a strong start this year as they captured second place finishes in the Alton Top Ten, St. Paul, and Waterloo invitational tournaments. Senior runners Jim Dumont, Dave Blackwell, and Ken Megher were the team leaders. Jim Dumont also took championship honors in the Belleville East and Collinsville meets.

Underclassmen Dave Taylor, Dave Houston, Curt Collins, Scott Ahlers, and Wally Fenton also were vital members of the varsity team.

Jeff Taylor and Ed Schmulbach were exceptional freshmen runners.

While preparing for the District tourney, Dave Houston developed a cyst in his arm and had to be hospitalized, which weakened him. The Warriors finished seventh in the Tourney as a team and were ineligible to continue on in post-season competition.

To be eligible for the 500 mile club, an elite group among runners, one must independently run a total of 500 miles during the summer.

Golfing Seniors Lead Team Down The Fairway

As a team, the 1977 Warrior golfers posted a 3-11-1 record. Victories were gained over East St. Louis, 171-191; Woodriver, 166-179; and Red Bud, 170-172. Individual honors were gained by Dutch Schroder, Ben Brown and Joe Juneau in the North scramble. Dutch Schroder also qualified for the Sectional Tournament when he shot an 85 in the District Tourney. This year's letter winners and their nine-hole averages were Dutch Schroder, 41; Ben Brown, 42.2; Jol King, 44.7; Greg Mulach, 45; and Kevin Romine, 45.

In the Quincy Tournament, the Warriors finished 19 of 24 teams. In the North scramble, they placed fifth of nine. At Edwardsville they finished ninth of sixteen, and they were twentieth out of twenty-four teams at the Springfield Tournament. In Districts the team placed fifth of twelve teams. Besides the superb showing of Dutch Schroder, the bright spot for the future seems to be Freshman Todd Burns who had a nine-hole average of 50 this year.

Netters Enter Competitive Season

The girls basketball team started off the season by tying Edwardsville 34-34 and going on to down Marquette 46-43. South's first fall was to the unbeaten Althoff 44-30. After jumping out to a 3-0 lead, South went over nine minutes before they scored their next points. In the mean time, Althoff went on a scoring binge and had broken out to a 20-5 lead. The Warriorettes came back to score 25 more points and Althoff to score 22 more.

This season the high scorers for South were Mary Livingston and Carla Knezovich, each averaging 10 points per game. In addition, Kathy Becherer aided the Warriorettes as being the top rebounder.

They had a highly competitive schedule to follow this season. A few of the roughest opponents were Althoff and East St. Louis." With these freshman and sophomores benefiting from playing experience, the team should really be tough in the next few years," stated Coach Pat Yates.

Warrior Cagers Resume Winning Ways

This year the Warrior cagers surprised everyone by reversing a trend and bringing a winning season home to South.

Beginning the season in the Bridgeport Tourney, the Warriors beat Edwards County, 48-39, Oblong 87-57, and Red Will, 64-55. South then conquered their next two foes, Triad and Jerseyville, before bowing to Belleville West by only a single point, 44-43. It was the best start for a South team in many years.

South then defeated Rosary, 66-57, but dropped the next game to a highly ranked Belleville East team, 59-56. In this heart-breaking defeat, Terry Angle lead with 17 points, followed by Tom Hennrich with 12.

Traveling to Wood River for a Christmas tournament, South beat Clinton, ranked third in Tennessee, by a whalloping 75-50. Angle again lead with 28 points, with Hennrich at 14. Angle, along with Jeff Tretter, collected seven rebounds.

In the second round, the cagers whipped Roxana 67-49. This time Hennrich was leader with 24 points, and Lee Huebner lead with 9 rebounds. In the championship game with Wood River, the Warriors shellacked the host school, 61-48. For the first time, Jeff Tretter scored in double figures with 10 points, and Angle pulled down 7 rebounds.

Nominated to the all-tournament team were Tom Hennrich and Terry Angle. Angle was also named the tourney's most valuable player.

Beginning the new year, South played host to Cahokia, but the Comanches soundly defeated the Warriors by a score of 50-38. It was the first time of the season that South had been beaten by more than three points.

The next week South played Missouri powerhouse, McCluer North, and was overpowered 73-54, but jumped back by winning 68-57 over Civic Memorial, and gained a 59-43 victory over Quincy Notre Dame.

The Warriors seemed a little flat as they lost another close game to Alton, 68-64. But in the annual North-South duel, the Warriors completely dominated play from the tip-off.

South avenged its earlier losses to North by decisively beating North by eight points, 51-43. Terry Angle sparked the offensive as he pumped in 30 points. Tom Hennrich and Lee Huebner each contributed 8 points, followed by Jeff Tretter and Terry Angle each with 6, and Jeff Parker with 3.

The cagers played excellent defense the entire game and dominated the boards by pulling down 31 rebounds, 18 of which belonged to Angle.

Beginning with the Belleville Altoff game, the Warriors lost their next 6 games. The defense continued to play well; in fact, South was one of the area's leading defensive teams, but the offense failed to generate enough points.

Included in this streak were losses to E. St. Louis, the number 7 ranked team in the state, 77-50, and to Collinsville 82-43. Also included was a 66-65 loss to Madison, the defending state class A champions.

Venturing to Edwardsville, the Warriors ended the season by pulling off a close one, 46-45.

Beating Tigers Ends Six Year Drought

The outcome of the last game of the season determined whether the Warriors would end a six year drought. By defeating the Tigers in the last five seconds with Tom Mahl sinking a basket and with Jeff Parker stealing the ball, preventing the Tigers from scoring, the Warriors came home with a winning season for the first time in six years.

Going to Districts, the Warriors faced the Eastside Flyers, a team that defeated them earlier by a 27 point margin. The strategy of this game, however, was much different. By using stalling techniques, the score was 8-2 at halftime, and the final was 19-14, the lowest scoring game of the season, in favor of the Flyers.

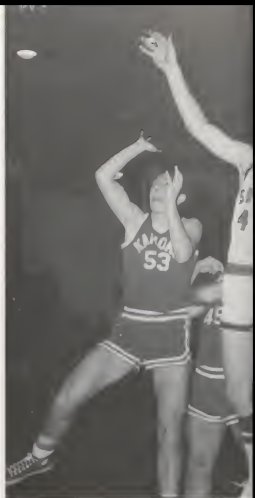

High free throw scorer was Tom Mahl, sinking 26 out of 35 tries for a percentage of 74.3. In addition, Tom Hennrich ranked second with a percentage of 73.3, sinking 77 out of 105.

High scorer for the season was Terry Angle, averaging 16.9 points per game, with a total of 422 points. In second place was Tom Hennrich with an average of 12.9 points per game with a total of 323.

High rebounder for defense was Terry Angle, pulling down 116, supported by Jeff Parker's 55. Offensive rebound honors went to Terry Angle again with 65 and Jeff Tretter with 38.

Tom Hennrich earned the most assists with 52, followed by Jeff Tretter with 49 and Jeff Parker with 42.

Experience Counts

Of the three underclassmen basketball teams this year, the junior varsity enjoyed the best season with a record of 6 wins and 9 losses. Jim Blasingame lead the scoring with an average of 18 points per game, and Jeff Vaughn averaged 7.

The sophomores also won 6 games but lost 13. Before moving to varsity, Lee Heubner was high point man, averaging 15 points a game and shooting 50% from the field. Leading in rebounds were Don Gonzales with 108 and John Vrenick with 71.

The freshmen had a less successful season, winning only 2 out of 19 games. Leading scorers were Dave Edwards with 155 points for the season, followed by Tom Tracy and George Sykes with 123 and 121 respectively. Tom Tracy also lead the team in rebounds, pulling down 118.

Warriors Continue Winning Tradition

A winning wrestling team is somewhat of a tradition at Granite South. This year was no exception as the Warriors finished their season with a 21-1 record. The Warriors culminated their season by advancing six wrestlers to the state tournament and finishing seventh.

Beginning in the last weekend of November, the Warrior wrestlers showed that, despite being a young team, they were ready to wrestle by scoring a 67-0 victory over Danville and a 48-5 triumph over Normal.

Although not considered a strong team and picked by area press and coaches to be one of the weakest teams in South's history, the grapplers proved from the beginning that they were truly champions.

During December the Warriors continued to completely dominate their foes as they scored easy victories over Edwardsville, 46-15, and Bloomington, 34-18.

Continuing their streak, the wrestlers defeated East St. Louis, 54-11, and trounced Springfield Southeast, 57-6.

Entering the Holiday tourney with an unblemished record, the Warriors, at last recognized by the critics, were picked to win.

Although trailing Roxana at the end of the first day, the Warriors came on strong to win first place and send Roxana home with an uneaten victory cake. Individual champions in the tournament were 119 pounds Wally DeShon, 126 Barry Forshee, 138 Sam Perkins, 145 Darrell Hasty.

Beginning the new year, South beat Belleville East 31-19, Pekin, 23-22, and blitzed Peoria Rich-woods 59-2.

Belleville West proved to be tougher than expected as they dropped the Warriors by a score of 26-18. It was the only defeat of the season, the second time in 21 years South had lost to Belleville West, and only the third time South had lost to an area team.

Rebounding, the grapplers smashed Normandy 42-11. In a quad meet, the Warriors defeated Roxana 30-16, Lindberg, 37-3, and embarrassed the host school, Hazelwood Central, 45-3.

The following week the Warriors staged a repeat performance at McCluer North. Completely dominating the quad, the grapplers decisioned Columbia Hickman 57-3 and Quincy by an almost identical score of 58-3. McCluer also succumbed to Warrior power, 51-4.

Despite stiffer competition elsewhere, the Warriors savored the win over North, losing only one match, allowing two draws, and winning nine matches.

Greg Garland set the pace, winning 8-3. Then Rocky Lupardus and Scott Clement fought to draws. Wally DeShon lost the only match of the night on a 15-6 decision.

The remainder of the night belonged to South. Barry Forshee won a major decision, 14-6. Dean Perkins won a close match, 6-4. Brother Sam Perkins had the only fall of the night when he stuck his Steeler at the 2:59 mark of his match.

In an exciting bout, Darrell Hasty prevailed with a 3-2 win. Mike Forshee won 10-8, Scott Polson won 14-8, Mark Lemp won 7-2, and heavyweight Don King ended the meet with a 7-4 win.

South Remains Unbeaten In Districts: Captures Sectionals

Granite South has never placed below first in District competition. Once again the Warriors carried on the tradition and kept the streak going. Capturing the twenty-first District title, the Warriors are the only team in the state that has never lost a District meet.

This year the Warriors did exceptionally well, having a place winner in every weight division. There were four champions: Barry Forshee, Dean Perkins, Sam Perkins, and Darrell Hasty.

Runners-up were Rocky Lupardus, Scott Clement, Wally DeShon, Mike Forshee, Scott Polson, and Mark Lemp. Winning bronze medals were Greg Garland and Don King.

Since the first two place winners in each weight class advanced to the Sectional tourney, South was well represented with wrestlers in the 105 and 185 pounds weight classes, inclusive.

It was the best showing in recent years for South as they shared the championship honors with Roxana. For the first year ever, three wrestlers, instead of two, from the Sectional advanced to State. Qualifiers included 105 pound Rocky Lupardus, third; 119 Wally DeShon, second; 120 Barry Forshee, third; 132 Dean Perkins, first; 138 Sam Perkins, third; and 145 Darrell Hasty, first.

The State tournament, held in Champaign, was the highlight of the season. It is a great honor and win or lose, the participant should receive the respect of his peers.

This year South had two place winners. Sam Perkins came away with a silver medal, losing only his championship match. Darrell Hasty brought home third place honors after losing in the first round and winning the remainder of his matches.

None of the other wrestlers won; Rocky Lupardus, Wally DeShon, Barry Forshee, and Dean Perkins all lost in the first round. Dean and Barry lost in overtime; Barry on a referee's decision.

For a team that was thought to have nothing, the Warriors had a fantastic season, winning every tournament they were in, except state in which they placed seventh.

Great praise and many thanks should be extended to Coaches Schmitt, Rice and Brooks for again putting Granite City on the map of Illinois wrestling.

Underclassmen Post Impressive Records

This year the underclass wrestlers compiled incredible records. The junior varsity and sophomore teams were undefeated, and the freshmen suffered only one loss.

The junior varsity blitzed all of their competition winning four shutouts and captured the title in Parkway West tourney.

The sophomores took first place honors in the Granite North tourney enroute to recording an undefeated season. Except for the meet with Edwardsville, the freshmen dominated their foes.

Underclassmen standouts this year were Rodney Lupardus with a superior record of 26-0; Tom McElroy finished with an almost equally impressive record of 22-2-1, followed by Greg Davis at 18-1-1, and Vahe Habesian at 16-1. Fastest pins were freshman Tom McElroy in 0:31, sophomore Rich Miller in 0:39, and Phil Beljanski pinned his opponent from North in just 0:14 for the fastest fall in junior varsity competition.

Bowlers On Strike

South's bowling team had a disappointing season, ending with an 0-4 record. Sophomore Sherrie DePew led the team with highest average, 151, and with the highest series, 568.

Under the leadership of Coach Ruth Noeth, the girls developed their skills. Most of the team previously bowled on the intramural squad.

This was the first year that the girls competed against other teams before districts, held at Litchfield.

Trainers Wrap

Trainers put in long hours, arriving before all practices and games begin and leaving after all others have gone home.

During the summer Jay Wiesehan and Bobby Thomas went to Granite North to learn some taping techniques.

Organizing equipment is just one job done by the trainers. They also set up facilities and equipment before all sports events.

Students Compete In Intramurals

Intramural sports are played with teams within the school; interscholastics are sports played between schools. The meanings of these words often are confused. The interscholastic teams are more popular and more people go out for them. But it seems that some people don't even know that intramural sports exist at South. However, they do exist, barely.

This year the only intramural sports at South were bowling and badminton. Due to all the interscholastic sports at South, sometimes gym facilities were unavailable after school.

Bowling tournaments were held at Tri-Mor Bowl. Seven teams competed for first place. Bill Canter teamed with Sherri DePew to take first place. Steve Grady was a high roller with a score of 219.

During open house, badminton tournaments were held in the girls' gym. Debbie Kacera and John Buhmann were the mixed doubles winners. Gregory Gedeare took first for the boys' singles. Girls' doubles winners were Laura Gabriel and Sherrie DePew.

Coaches' Corner

Coach Baker: Soccer Coach Of The District

Before coming to Granite City, Coach Baker was a student at USC and a coach at USC. He also attended the University of the Pacific where he was a defensive back in 1963. In senior year, the picture was on the cover of SPORTS ILLUSTRATED. That year, St. John's University won the national title in addition to being the only team from that school to have an all-time record.

After graduation, Mr. Baker was a coach at Harris Ranch College where he led his team to a fifth place finish in the NAIA Tournament. He also coached at Lewis and Clark Community College and Riverview Gardens where he compiled winning records.

Granite City's first state championship was won in 1973. He has taken three of his teams to the state level and twice had championships. In 1975 and 1977, it was the only time a school has led back-to-back championships. Granite South also is the only team in the state of Illinois to win the trophy more than once.

Because of these outstanding accomplishments and his contributions to all areas of soccer, Mr. Gene Baker was selected the best soccer coach in the state for the year 1976 and the best in his district who encompasses several midwestern states.

Coach Schmitt: Wrestling Coach Of The Country

Coach William Schmitt was named as National Coach of the Year. Mr. Schmitt is currently the chairman of the Illinois High School Association Wrestling Advisory Committee. A graduate of Alton High School, Shurtleff College, and the University of Illinois, Mr. Schmitt started his coaching career at Western Military Academy and since 1950 has been at Granite City.

During his span as coach at Granite City, his teams have won 442 dual meets, lost 38, and tied 8. They have won 97 tournaments in Illinois and Missouri, of which 21 were district championships and 23 were sectional championships. His 1965 team won the state title. Included in this impressive list are 7 undefeated teams. He has developed 66 state place winners, of which 8 were champions.

For the past 20 years, Mr. Schmitt has been a member of IHSA Wrestling Advisory Committee, a rules interpreter for the past 12 years, and a member of the NCAA Executive Committee since 1968, and served in various capacities for this organization including vice president in 1972-1973, president in 1973-1974, and since that time he has been in the executive committee.

He is a past member of the National Association of State High School Athletic Administrators Committee. For his achievement in the sport of wrestling, the Illinois Wrestling and Officials Association elected Mr. Schmitt to the Hall of Fame in 1973. He also received the Service Award from the National Athletic Coaches Association in 1975 and was a grand marshal for the 1977 state wrestling tournament.

Mr. Schmitt has referred himself as one of the great athletic administrators in the sport of wrestling in the state of Illinois. He has been a part of the sport of wrestling for over 20 years.

He has been a part of the sport of wrestling for over 20 years. He has been a part of the sport of wrestling for over 20 years.

Sailing, Sailing, Over The Ocean Blue

During the Christmas holidays at a nearby shopping center, several students were shopping for bathing suits and summer clothing. It may sound ridiculous but very true for many of the Social Studies Club members. Of course, their main goal once again was the annual trip over Easter vacation. They planned a Caribbean cruise to the Bahamas, Nassau, San Juan Puerto Rico, and the St. Thomas Virgin Islands. Mr. Shatto, club sponsor, commented, "This year's idea for a trip has been the most ambitious ever. The idea has been discussed on the way home from last year's trip."

Through the summer, the seniors from last year held a rummage sale and sold magazines to help the club financially for the cruise. This year's money-making projects included selling magazines, candy, and Florida citrus fruits, plus another rummage sale. Both rummage sales total profit was one thousand dollars. The entire cost for the trip was approximately sixteen thousand dollars.

In order to be eligible to go on the trip, each of the students who went had to earn half of the five hundred dollars that was needed to go. The remaining two hundred and fifty dollars could also be earned by projects or paid out of his own pocket. Each member must also have earned work points and attended meetings regularly. Each person worked for himself instead of the club to buy his own ticket. This gave students, whose parents could not afford the high prices, an opportunity to earn it themselves.

The eligible members flew to Miami where they boarded the ship. Activities on board included swimming, on-deck games such as shuffleboard and volleyball, stage shows, movies, dancing floors, and more.

At one meeting a month, a guest speaker, preferably one who had traveled around the world, talked to the group relating his subject to history or social studies. In addition to preparing for the trip, a homecoming float was built and at Christmas the club adopted a family and provided them with Christmas dinner. At the end of the year they furnished the money for the award going to the most outstanding social studies student on Senior Recognition Day.

Type, Sort, Deliver

Without the aid of the main office, attendance, and guidance assistants, the menial jobs of our school would not be done, and the school could not function as well.

The main office girls sort and deliver mail, run errands, and help the secretaries. The daily routine of the attendance girls includes delivering messages to students and faculty, collecting absentee slips, handling dismissals, running errands for assistant principals, and providing information to those in need of it.

Guidance helpers run errands for counselors, answer phones, and alphabetize student files. These efficient girls give up their free hours to work and receive no class credit but gain work experience.

With the help of library and audio-visual assistants, these resource centers can be used to their fullest extent for education as well as entertainment.

In the newly-decorated library, the aides collect overdue book fines, check out books, assist students in using the resources and take library passes to study hall teachers.

The A.V. helpers issue equipment, prepare and catalog films, transport projectors, organize film schedules, and operate various machines for teachers. These students make life easier for all staff members.

An Active Year

This was a very eventful year for the Science Club. To raise money the club held a rummage sale, sold license plates, held a newspaper drive and a pancake supper. During the Christmas season, hand-made wreaths requiring long hours of work were sold.

A homecoming float, consisting of a wooden and papermâché tiger with member Rick Willmore riding it dressed as a Warrior, won second prize.

Members who earned enough points from the various projects went to Chicago in the spring to visit several museums.

The highlight of the year for the Photography Club was a candle sale. For selling the most candles, Norbert Tate (68), Ray Edwards (57), and Mike Schmidt (25), won gift certificates.

During the year they take pictures, develop them and talk about their mistakes.

Council Keeps Busy

Behind the scenes of many activities is Student Council. They receive some criticism each year because they supposedly aren't active enough. The following is a list of some of their projects; send representatives to camp each year, five dances, two blood drives, freshman orientation, snow cone week, Lonnie Laster fund, parking decals, homecoming mums and parade, spook-a-grams, val-o-grams, and sham-o-grams, class shirts (two kinds), Christmas baskets, soccer ball raffle, student exchanges, Christmas assembly, carnations on Valentines Day, King and Queen of Hearts, more chains for the campus, Prom, May Festival, and elections for new members for 1978.

Even though homecoming is not a Student Council project, they are in charge of the yearly parade and sale of homecoming mums. Members of Council dressed up as clowns for the parade, rather than entering a float. Over two hundred and fifty mums were sold.

For Christmas, they provided baskets for forty needy families. The baskets included oranges (bought from the Social Studies Club), two loaves of bread, a turkey, and a thirty dollar gift certificate from Kozyaks only to be spent on food.

This year Student Council had many new ideas. Probably the most unusual item was class tee shirts with the names of the entire class printed on them. They also sold two kinds of soccer buttons for the State Champs. Without the backing of the Student Council, many activities wouldn't exist.

Girls Organize Trip

The Home Economics club had a busy year selling candles, Tupperware, and candy, sponsoring a bake sale, a spring clean-up project, and a paper dash; having a hay ride, a Halloween slumber party, and a Christmas party; and finally taking a spring trip.

The paper drive, or paper "dash" as they called it had a time limit, and each girl attempted to obtain the most newspapers. This was Miss Lichter's first year as a sponsor.

Girls Win Gold In FSA Olympics

Girls involved in the Future Secretaries of America were awarded medals for winning contests in the FSA Olympics. This included contests in typing, shorthand, fashion, and talent.

A boss panel and secretary panel were held at separate meetings. The bosses of several different businesses told what they expect of a secretary and the secretaries explained how to deal with a boss.

At the end of the year several girls were chosen to spend one day in an office. Finally, a banquet is held to honor junior and senior Miss FSA.

Paint, Pawn, Piñata

The Spanish Club inherited a new sponsor this year, Mr. Sellmeyer.

A Christmas party was held at one of the members' homes where the group played games, tried to break the piñata, and sang Christmas carols in Spanish. An all-day field trip was planned for visiting a Spanish show at Washington University and afterwards eating at Mi Pueblito, a Spanish restaurant.

The chess team had a winning season this year with a six wins and four losses. Few know (and few have put in) the necessary time that it takes to really understand the game.

Before beginning the match, it is necessary for the individual to get into the right frame of mind. One must be familiar with the many rules, strategies, and game pieces.

A meet is judged by a point system according to which board is played. For example, the winning player on board number one will receive five points, board two, four points and so on.

For the third year in a row, the Art Club managed to take first prize for their homecoming float based on the theme of the Whistler's mother painting.

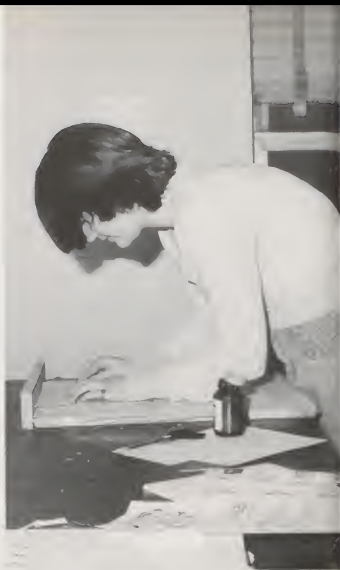

However, the major project of the Art Club was making the decorations for the May Festival each year.

Over the years, murals have been painted in classrooms and still another is planned to make our rooms more like "home".

High World Gets The Scoop Every Time

Have you seen the dummy in room 130? Actually, dummy is the term used for the page with all the articles, ads, etc. glued on it.

This year a new grading system was devised. Students earned points for doing different jobs. For example, 1-6 points were given for layouts, depending on the quality of the layout and if it were on time. The length and how much rewriting had to be done decided the 1-4 points possible for writing a story.

Typing, distributing, and doing just about every other task were all ways to obtain points. This method was said to be a more fair and just way of evaluating the staff members.

The High World was published bimonthly by Editor Barb Gundlach and staff with the help of Mrs. Johnson, sponsor. This year they experimented with a four column layout rather than three, and this fall was the first time for having two beginning journalism classes.

PEOPLE People

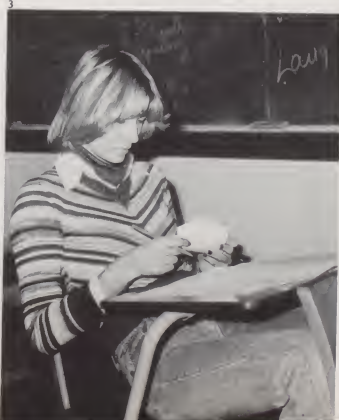

The fifteen members of the yearbook staff this year put together an unique book based on the theme of a PEOPLE magazine. They wore matching PEOPLE t-shirts to promote sales. Although the price of the yearbook was raised to nine dollars, the book had many extras such as a color tip-in in the soccer section. This year seventeen hundred yearbooks cost approximately thirteen thousand dollars.

Tasks of the staff include drawing layouts, taking, identifying, and cropping pictures, writing copy, and typing. A group of pictures just aren't thrown together on a page. It often takes redrawing, rewriting, and simply redoing each page until everything fits.

The staff came in on weekends, holidays, and during finals to meet their deadlines. However, they enjoyed many humorous moments as they frantically searched for missing pictures or black pens or took numbers for the typewriter.

Many Greats Lost

In 1977 many noted people died. Bing Crosby, Freddie Prinze, Elvis Presley, Guy Lombardi, Groucho Marx, Hubert Humphrey, and members of the Lynyrd Skynyrd band will be remembered for their talents.

The holidays were not as complete without Bing Crosby singing "White Christmas." Freddie Prinze, co-star of the series, CHICO AND THE MAN, ended his successful television career by committing suicide. Groucho Marx, once the prince of comedy, will long be remembered for his large black glasses, cigar, and his hilarious slapstick comedy.

The traditional New Year's Eve celebration at Times Square will be missing the conducting by Guy Lombardi.

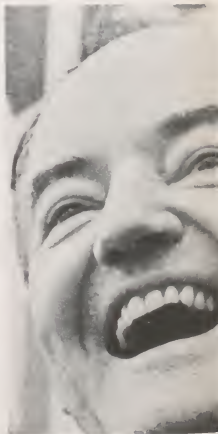

Hubert Humphrey, the vice-president who served under the administration of President Johnson and was also the Senator from Minnesota, died in early 1978 from cancer.

George Likes U.S.

George Cardoso, our exchange student, came to Granite South from Belem, Brazil, where he plans to return at the end of summer. George has made many new friends even though he sometimes has a difficult time communicating.

George has had to make many adjustments. At home George only attends school three days a week, from seven to twelve a.m.

Snow seems to be another change that he finds new and unusual, but he admits that the cold is too much of a change. George enjoys the sports here; his favorites are soccer and volleyball. When he asked what he thought was one of the major problems in the U.S., he replied, "The prejudice that the whites have against other races."

Presley, king of rock and roll. 5. Hubert Humphrey, formerly Governor of Minnesota. 6. George searches for a Spanish book.

Scenery And Songs Entertain Crowds

The spring musical CARNIVAL was presented April 13, 14, 15, under the direction of Mrs. Beverly Scroggins.

At a run-down circus, Lili played by Paula Bryant, attempted to find a job and adventure. At first she was captivated by the charms of Marco the Magnificent, played by Larry Heagy, who in turn, was in love with The Incomparable Rosalie portrayed by Becky Sage.

Paul Berthalet, played by Dan Hunnicutt and Jacquot, portrayed by Jeff Robinson, ran a puppet show. Through the use of the puppets, Paul declared his love for Lili.

Les Freres Alonzo, played by Tim and Greg Powderly, entertained the young children with a performance on their unicycles.

Sixth Hour Advanced Stage craft built the elaborate wagons and also were responsible for the lighting.

SIU Hosts Prom

One hundred and fifty eight couples gathered to celebrate their senior year at the prom, sponsored by Student Council on April 22 from six to midnight at the SIU Meridian Ballroom.

Couples chose from a buffet dinner before the music of Everyday People began.

A champagne glass inscribed with the theme "Looks Like We Made It" was given to each girl attending. Also, pictures of the couples were taken as a memento.

"It will be a night I'll always remember," commented Dan Manoogian.

"I had a great time being able to share the prom with a great guy," exclaimed Tammy Barnes.

May Pole Dance Continues Tradition

Graduating seniors and students of GCHS/South were entertained at May Festival by a variety of skits.

Beginning the evening, Becky Sage was crowned May Queen by retiring Homecoming Queen, Terri Deterding. Diane Degonia and Lisa Crippen were chosen first attendants; Paula Jones and Beth Ripper were elected second attendants.

A jazz group danced to the music of "Disco Lady." The girls gymnastic team performed a free exercise to the music of "Rocky." Then a modern dance to the theme of "Lady" was done by Lorretta Weaver and Regina Benson. All of the dances were under the direction of Mrs. Linda Hill.

While the Madrigals sang "That's the Way I like It," Todd Browning, Lonnie Smith, Mike Orasco and John Williams disco danced. Todd and Lonnie choreographed the dance.

In addition, Lala Anselmo performed a free exercise to the music of SWAT.

Recapping the theme, Larry Heagy sang a special version of "Lady."

The highlight of the evening once again was the May Pole Dance, followed by the candlelight ceremony, reminding senior girls of all their sweet memories of high school.

Seniors Honored

The seniors have finally reached their goals and have received recognition at the assembly for their credit and many accomplishments. Awards were given for their scholastic ability, leadership, school spirit, music, sports, and many other special achievements. Jane Matoesian was announced the valedictorian and Linda Holder as the salutatorian.

Several athletes have earned sports scholarships. Mark Goldschmidt received a four year scholarship for $20,000 to Indiana University. Other soccer players receiving awards were Greg Feigl, $1700 to the University of Alabama at Huntsville; Joe Theis, $1500 to Rockhurst College, Kansas City Missouri; and John Krekovich and Gary Phelps $1300 each to Northern University. Tom Hennrich earned a $715 baseball scholarship to Illinois State University.

Alice Hoffman received $800 from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sandy Cann and Tammy Hartzel were announced as recipients of American Federation of Teachers scholarships of $300 each.

Dave Klarich received $250 from the Monsanto Company to attend the University of Missouri - Rolla, and Elizabeth Eck was awarded the $400 Dale Carnegie Public Speaking Award.

Doug Teaney received a Presidential Leadership scholarship worth $200.

The students of South will always remember our seniors who brought many honors to the school.

Gymnists Perform

"For our first year as a gymnastic team, we did very well. The girls were determined to be winners," commented Mrs. Hill.

Several outstanding seniors were Lala Anselmo, Diana Boyce, Terri Deterding and Marcie Little. Mrs. Hill felt that sophomore Melanie Rappsis gained the most points for the team after attempting competition on three pieces of equipment at each meet.

The gymnists are judged on form and execution of stunts by two capable people.

Defeating Edwardsville, their biggest rival, pleased the girls tremendously.

Practicing every day after school for two hours became a routine. The girls started with fifteen minutes of warmups, and then moved to their piece of equipment.

A picnic was held at the end of the season by Coach Hill to award the girls medallions.

Young Competitors

The tennis team led by Tom Boker and Ron Backs ended its season with a nine and ten record. After losing the first seven matches, the Warriors battled back to win nine of their last twelve games.

Coach Harmon said, "The problem this year was that the team was too young." Ten freshmen played this year.

The outstanding freshman this year was Tom Longos, supported by George Sykes and Ed Schmulback. The number one singles player was senior Tom Boker, and the best doubles team was Kevin Romine and John Longos, who compiled a record of ten and one.

Girls Break Seven School Records

Led by Seniors Dannia DePew, Debbie Englemann, and Nancy Stephens, the track team improved much over last season in both attitude and team record.

Seven school records were broken this season. In the discus, Lisa Sarich threw 103'. Denise Goode broke the 110 hurdles and 220 hurdles records with runs of 17.1 and 34.4 respectively. The 100 yard dash was broken with a run of 12.1 by Rhonda Sanders. Chris Boyd broke the 440 yard dash with a run of 65.1. Sandy Schrieber outlasted the two mile run with a record time of 14 minutes.

The team of Rhonda Sanders,

Alisha Schleicher, Linda Bell, and Rhonda Reish broke the 440 relay with a time of 54.8 seconds. Tying the 880 medly time of 2:04 were Alisha Schleicher, Nancy Stephens, Rhonda Reish, and Chris Boyd.

The most promising athlete on the team was Sandy Schrieber. Sandy and Lisa Sarich contributed most of the team points with Sandy running the mile and two mile races, and Lisa throwing the discus and shot put.

Although no one qualified for state competition, the fulcrum of the season, Miss Charbonnier evaluated the team by saying, "I think they're SUPER!"

Three Qualify For State Tournament

Beginning in February, the boys track team worked out in the main halls in preparation for the upcoming indoor season. By running stairs and long distance, the boys built up stamina. Due to the snow, meets were postponed and the team didn't practice outdoors until late March.

Two school records were broken this season. Bert Houston broke the varsity record in the triple jump and Don Keeling ran the freshman 100 yard dash in 10.3 seconds for the record.

The most valuable athlete was Cliff Moran who vaulted 13'6" for the team high and qualified for state competition. The most consistent track performer was Bert Houston. Besides qualifying for state in the 880 yard run, he was named to the First Team Metro-East All-Star Team. The other state qualifier was Jay Huebner in the shot put and he was the most consistent field performer for the team.

In addition, Dave Houston received the award for outstanding sophomore and Don Keeling for outstanding freshman.

New Team In Town

Miss Leach attributes the softball team record of 0 and 4 to the inexperience of the first year team. Mary Livingston, third baseman, and Susan Squires, first baseman, led the team with strong hitting and good fielding.

Next year Miss Leach hopes to increase the schedule to eight games. She said, "We practiced 63 hours to play 4 games. Most girls don't want to spend that much time on softball."

An Even Season

The Warrior baseball team fought to a 12-12-1 record this season.

Tim Kirksey led the pitching squad with 38 strike outs. Tom Mahl helped with a earn run average of 1.64. A relief pitcher, Al Yount, saved 3 games for the Warriors and Mike DeGonia had a earn run average of 1.08.

Jeff Tretter led the batting department with 20 RBI's and 4 home runs, followed by John Krekovich with 18 RBI's.

The two highest batting averages were held by captain Tom Henrich with an average of .346 and John Krekovich with a .324 average. Dan Schaus, the most valuable player on the team, helped out with a .304 average.

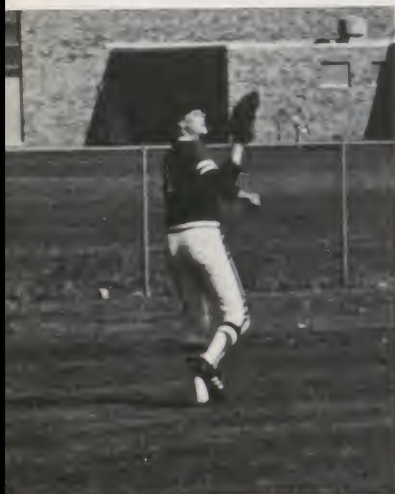

Coach Champion stated, "Next year they will do well if they want to play; they have the potential." Coach Champion also named the two co-captains for next year: Jim Thurman and Jeff Parker.

Sophomores Battle To A 9-7 Season

The Sophomore baseball squad was led this year by John Vrenich, the most outstanding player. His performance on the mound was equal to that at the plate. Blake Ambuehl, Jim Lewis, and Walt Streicher each helped out with batting averages over .350. Jim Lewis led the batting department with 19 hits followed closely by Blake Ambuehl with 17 and Keith Moutria with 15. The Warriors closed the season with a total of 128 hits and a team average of .303.

John Vrenich led the pitchers with an ERA of 2.25. He pitched 49 2/3 innings, faced 214 batters, and had a record of 5-2-0. Jim Lewis helped out with an ERA of 1.37. The Warrior's pitching staff threw 1728 pitches in a total of 99 innings and had a team ERA of 2.47.

Over 500 Graduate From GCHS/South

Over 500 graduating seniors enjoyed the cool air June 2 as they listened to various speakers. This class was particularly unique to the administration since two principals' children graduated. Obviously, this fact formed the cornerstone of Mr. Dumont's speech. He gave advice not only as an administrator but also as a father and friend. Superintendent Davis advised students to live each day as if that would be the way they wished to be remembered, to have no fear of yesterday because that is over and to have no doubts about tomorrow.

Next Salutatorian Linda Holder spoke about the value of friendship and how many friendships formed in high school would erode; however, their effect would still be felt in the future. Valedictorian Jane Mateosian spoke about break throughs her classmates had made in their thirteen years.

Naturally, the climax of the evening differed for each student as he waited to hear his name called and receive his diploma.
